County Leaders Search For New Water Source

2 PROPOSALS STUDIED BY OFFICIALS

Proposed Dam On Santa Ana River Would Take Flow From County

Where will Orange county go to increase its water supply if Riverside county builds its proposed Santa Ana river dam at Jurupa? Realizing that this project would take storm waters which Orange county needs and could save it had a dam of its own, leaders in the water movement today were seeking some other possible source of supply.

Two Plans Advanced
Possible purchase of Metropolitan Water District water, and use of reclaimed sewage water from Los Angeles county are two of the schemes which have been advanced for solution of Orange county's problem.

The question of added water for rural areas of the county was faced definitely last night at the Green Cat cafe when the board of directors of the Orange County water district met with a committee of the Metropolitan Water District. They discussed the possibility of purchasing MWD water for Orange county. The possibility of the local water district joining the MWD was discussed also.

Transport Cost Told
It will cost $3 to $10 per acre foot to transport MWD water from the Colorado river to Orange county, it was reported last night. This does not mean, however, that it could be sold at that figure, because some profit to the district would be taken, it is anticipated. A committee representing both groups will be named to study the actual cost of bringing the water here.

Another study is being made of (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

TRACES FOUND OF REDFERN

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Jan. 22. (AP)—One of three expeditions searching for Paul Redfern, missing American flier, reported today discovery of definite traces deep in the South American jungle of the aviator who disappeared on an inter-continental hop in 1927.

Art Williams, former United States army pilot who heads one of the searching parties, said: "We found definite traces where we were searching that Redfern landed and was in the vicinity recently."

Contest Over Large Estate Left By Blanche Dolph Indicated Here

A contest over an estate of probably $500,000 left by the late Blanche L. Dolph, 87, Dana Point, was threatening to break in superior court today. Miss Dolph died last Saturday.

County records indicated that on one side will be her sister, Florence E. Dolph, Los Angeles, to whom the deceased woman left a rug and a painting in a will filed today for probate.

The records indicated that on the other side will be Lucilla McGaughey, companion of Blanche Dolph for 25 years, to whom the major portion of the estate was left, and O. Howard Lucy, Los Angeles.

Sea-Zoo Docks

Lewis Ship, at Balboa, Ends 9000-Mile 'Monkey' Trip

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Tarzan of the Apes had nothing on Capt. Fred E. Lewis of the motorship Stranger.

The Stranger docked in Newport harbor last night after a 9000-mile voyage on which the only passengers were monkeys, macaws and other brethren of the jungle. There were two deer on the ship when she started home, but one died and the other emulated Tarzan and jumped overboard.

The seagoing zoo—a sleek, white miniature ocean liner—left New London, Conn., on Oct. 17, 1935. Going through the Panama canal, she ploughed the seas to the Galapagos islands, then came to the west coast to San Diego, stopping at various Central American and Mexican ports on the way. On the various stops the Stranger picked up its passenger list, which includes the famous albino cross fish, kinkajous and creatures with other strange sounding names.

The collection was left at San Diego for the zoo in Balboa park. The macaws, however, are now at the quarantine station and will join their fellow passengers later.

The Stranger is docked virtually in the "front yard" of Mr. Lewis's home at Balboa. Today there were still aboard some of the tropical fish taken (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

New Republican Assembly Of County, Given Charter, Opens Campaign for Party

With its actuating ideal, the "promotion of better government as opposed to the sponsoring of personal political ambitions," the Orange County Republican Assembly, with a membership of 200 county Republicans, last night was granted its charter in an organization banquet held at James cafe. ### MERRIAM TO TAKE BRIDE

Governor, Long Beach Woman Will Marry; Date Is Mystery

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 22. (AP)—Gov. Frank Merriam and Mrs. Jessie Stewart Lipsey, friends of long standing, have decided to marry.

They filed notice of intention to wed in Riverside county yesterday. When the ceremony will take place is their secret. Close friends of the 70-year-old governor and the 66-year-old bride-to-be said they could not divulge the wedding plans.

Want Quiet Rites
A. Heber Winder, Riverside lawyer, said:

"They want a quiet wedding. Insofar as I am able, I shall help them realize their wish."

The wedding notice was filed in Winder's law office, with a deputy of the county clerk's office recording it. The anxiety of the couple about whether the license would be ready by next Saturday indicated the ceremony might take place Saturday or Sunday.

May Wait Month

From Sacramento came hints the governor might not take his bride until next month. Merriam recently ordered the executive mansion remodeled. It has not been occupied since the late Governor James Rolph's administration.

When Governor Merriam was a publisher in Iowa, Mrs. Lipsey's husband was a banker there. Mr. and Mrs. Lipsey came to Long Beach shortly after Merriam moved there. Mr. Lipsey died three years ago. Merriam's wife died in 1931, shortly after he became lieutenant governor.

PROBE STRIKE IN ALCATRAZ

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Warden James A. Johnston sited manager evidence today in his search for "agitators" who precipitated the vocal revolt and strike of about 100 incommunicable prisoners in Alcatraz federal penitentiary.

The strikers remained locked in solitary confinement—punishment. Warden Johnston said, for the breach of discipline that threw the island prison of America's most dangerous criminals into confusion Monday. The warden declined to name any participants.

The rub left to Miss Dolph by the will was listed as rug No. 7. The painting is called "The Desert," by George Gardner Simon.

Miss Dolph's petition showed that she is the only heir residing in California. She listed two nephews, two nieces and a brother residing at Scranton, Pa.

The will makes bequests of $300 up to $5000 to a group of 15 beneficiaries. To Ralph Beal, Santa Ana, the will left a picture entitled "Dolph Rocks" and to Dorothy Beal it bequeathed a string of amber beads.

LONG SCORES VICTORY IN LOUISIANA

Slain Senator's Aides Sweeping Election; Gov. Allen Leads

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22. (AP)—The slain Huey Long today apparently had scored another sweeping victory at the Louisiana polls. Judge Richard Leche, choice of Long's political machine for Louisiana's new governor, maintained a wide lead over his opponent, Representative Cleveland Deane, in unofficial returns from 421 of the state's 1575 precincts late today.

Has Wide Edge
The vote, including all of New Orleans' 262 precincts, was Leche 129,498 and Deane 49,849.

An anti-Long candidate for the fifth district seat on the Louisiana supreme court, Judge W. Carruth Jones of Baton Rouge, clung to a 184 vote lead over Judge A. L. Ponder of Amite, a Long choice. The state administration candidates were ahead of their opponents by approximately 10,000 votes for both the unfinished United States senate term of the late senator and the regular term.

The Vote
The vote in 151 scattered precincts follows:

Unfinished term—Governor O. K. Allen (Long) 19,443; Frank J. Looney, Shreveport (anti-Long) 9037; Irving Ward-Steinman, (Inc.) Alexandria 283.

Regular term—Allen Ellender, speaker of the house (Long) 19,749; Representative John N. Sandlin (anti-Long), 9990; Irving Ward-Steinman, 163.

As a dribbling of returns sifted through from the parishes outside of New Orleans the lead of Leche for governor was added to and it appeared that all the Long candidates for statewide office would share in the landslide.

EX-NIRA CHIEF'S GUN KILLS MAN

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 22. (AP)—S. Clay Williams, former chairman of the national industrial recovery board, was described by his intimates today as "almost prostrate" over his accidental killing of William A. Law, head of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, on a hunting trip.

Law, 71-year-old Philadelphia, was fatally shot on an isolated hunting preserve yesterday when Williams, chairman of the board of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, tripped on a honeysuckle vine and his gun exploded.

TEMPERATURE DROPS AGAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—The rawest cold since the turn of the century came howling down from the Canadian northwest today, plunging the mercury below zero from the Rocky Mountains to the Ohio river.

Blown along by a 40-mile gale, the bitter weather congealed the midwest with temperatures ranging all the way to 47 below. Predictions were for still colder weather tonight.

RIFT THREATENS PEACE RULING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—A possibility that public hearings may be demanded by some members of the senate foreign relations committee arose today to threaten further delay for the administration's new neutrality legislation.

LAUNCH FARM LEGISLATION

AAA Substitute Plan Sent to Congress; Norris Pessimistic

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The New Deal's substitute for AAA—a two-year, half-billion dollar stop-gap plan built on soil conservation—was started today on its congressional journey.

The measure was made public simultaneously by Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee and Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.). Shortly afterward it was dropped in the bill hopper.

It was immediately questioned as unconstitutional by Senator Norris (R-Neb.).

'This Is The Law'
"In my judgment," Norris, a constitutional authority and member of the agriculture committee, commented to newsmen, "this bill is unconstitutional under the supreme court's AAA decision."

"I'm willing to pass it and try it, I don't think it is unconstitutional personally, but under the AAA decision it is unconstitutional. This is the law now."

Bankhead previously had expressed the belief the proposed act could not be challenged because it carried no taxes or provisions for written contracts with farmers.

Withhold Appropriation
The projected $500,000,000 appropriation was not included. It will be offered as a separate bill (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

CANNON ROAR SALUTE TO MONARCH

New Ruler Is Formally Made Emperor Of United Kingdom

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
LONDON, Jan. 22.—A shrill fanfare of trumpets, climaxing a colorful age-old pageant with modern touches, formally proclaimed Great Britain's new flying monarch today as King Edward VIII.

Before a great crowd outside historic St. James palace, the medieval-clad garter king of arms, Sir Gerald Windsor, stepped to the balcony over the friary court.

In a firm voice he proclaimed the 41-year-old Edward king, emperor and defender of the faith.

'Save the King'
Blasts from silver trumpets rang out as Sir Gerald, a member of the herald's college, pronounced the resounding words: "God save the King!"

The throng stood silent. Then the battery of St. James park crashed out with the first of its salute of 41 guns—one for each year of King Edward's life.

The new ruler was seen to appear momentarily at a tall window adjoining the crimson-hung balcony. Otherwise he took no part in the traditional ceremonies.

'Faith and Obedience'
The "faith and constant obedience" of all his subjects were pledged to the new sovereign, confirming his succession to the throne of his late father, the 70-year-old King George V.

The words of the centuries-old proclamation were carried throughout the nation and the empire, to the new King's 500,000 subjects throughout a quarter of the world.

Wireless, the modern conqueror of space, was used for the first time in such a British royal ceremony.

The royal standard, which had flown over Buckingham, was lowered (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

CHANCES DIM FOR ARMORY

Santa Ana May Not Get Unit, State Adjutant General Says

Chances for the proposed state armory at Santa Ana are "not so good," it was admitted today by Adjutant General J. J. Moorehead of the California National Guard, in Washington for conferences with Works Progress Administration Harry L. Hopkins.

General Moorehead told the Associated Press that chances for the new armory here and in other California cities were slim, after learning that approval of the projects must go through State Administrator Frank Y. McLaughlin.

It was pointed out that Administrator McLaughlin has not enough money to carry through even half of the authorized WPA projects in the state, "let alone building armories for the national guard."

Armories are desired by 34 California cities, 19 of which have received provisional WPA approval. However, allotment of funds has been made to only four.

First blow to the hopes of Santa Ana for an armory was received here a month ago when approval was made of similar projects in Anaheim and Orange, but not Santa Ana. It was explained at the time that appropriations were being made for single-unit armories, while the proposed Santa Ana building was to be two-unit.

The proposed Santa Ana armory was to have cost approximately $80,000, and would have been built, if secured, on a plot of ground to be donated by the city.

FERRY CRASHES IN ICE JAM

FORT ERIE, Ont., Jan. 22. (AP)—A ferry plying between Fort Erie, Ont., and Buffalo tore off part of the superstructure when an ice jam carried the vessel against the International railway bridge here today, but was able to gain the safety of the New York state barge canal, two miles downstream. Unconfirmed reports said all passengers were safe.

BILL WILL BE LAW, STATE LEADERS

Administration Heads Declare Enactment Due Over Veto

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Congressional majorities ample to make law over Presidential vetoes today swept a bonus payment bill onto President Roosevelt's desk.

Vice President Garner signed the $2,491,000,000 measure shortly after the house adopted the senate's bond-payment plan by a 346 to 59 vote—many more than the two-thirds majority needed to swamp a veto message.

Immediately, it was returned to the house committee on enrolled bills where it was then sent to the White House at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The house accepted the senate's baby bond-payment plan, with its ultimate $2,491,000,000 cost, by a 346 to 59 ballot. The senate's passage vote Monday was 74 to 16. The house vote on original passage of a cash-payment bill was 356 to 59.

Passage Seen
Administration leaders have predicted flatly the bill will become law whether or not Mr. Roosevelt signs it.

It provides for payment of adjusted service certificates of 3,500,000 World War veterans in $50 bonds, starting June 15. Veterans preferring to hold the certificates would draw 3 per cent interest annually from June 15, 1937 to June 15, 1945.

Mere Formality
The house vote was a mere formality. It came on a motion by Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the ways and means committee to concur in a senate amendment, embracing the bond payment method, to a cash-payment bill which had cleared the house by a six to one margin.

Three courses of action are now open to Roosevelt. He can sign the bill, thereby enabling the veterans to begin cashing $50 government bonds at local postoffices on June 15.

He can veto it, whereupon it would go back to congress and a two-thirds vote of each house would be necessary to make it a law.

He can do nothing. In that case, the bill automatically would become law at the end of a 10-day period.

Many legislators believed he would either sign or veto, because early in his administration he opposed the third procedure, on principle, with relation to a bill dealing with another subject.

However, a group of legislators, including some known as "savers" of the administration, were studying the idea of making an appeal to the President to take the third course. They were said to feel that publicity attendant upon the over-riding of a veto might do damage to the popular standing of the president.

PLANS TOLD BY DR. TOWNSEND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend, author of the old age pension plan, said today forthcoming congressional primaries would determine whether his followers would start a third party movement.

In a statement issued "to clarify the public mind," the California physician said: "There will be no third party movement in those states where we are able to nominate our friends in the existing parties. There will be no third party movement anywhere prior to the primary elections which are to be held in the several states for the purpose of nominating the candidates for the next congress."

Payment of Veterans' Bonus Will Bring $2,000,000 to This County

generally agreed that the average soldier to be received by veterans would be in the neighborhood of $500. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the authors of the bonus bill, said in a radio speech last night the average would be $525.

With 4000 veterans in the county, this would mean total bonus payments would amount to $2,100,000.

A recent survey of the American Legion indicates that the amount would be $2,567,000. Of this sum it is expected that veterans would spend about $1,070,000 for new homes, $806,200 in payment of debts.

Other avenues into which the money might go are as follows: $154,100 for furniture, $150,000 for clothes, $141,200 for automobiles, $218,250 for house repair and painting, $115,550 for savings, $83,300 for farm land, $58,000 for farm tools, $78,500 for insurance, $48,200 for stocks and bonds, and $25,600 for electric and gas refrigerators.

Capacity House Hears Philosopher Ridicule Other Systems

By BOB GUILD

"Not a nation in the world but would willingly trade places with America."

Mixing his plain common sense with high wisdom and forthright comedy, Dr. Frederick P. Woelner, a Los Angeles philosopher, last night brought a message of confidence in the future of the country to a capacity audience at Santa Ana's first community dinner at Veterans hall.

"America? The proof of the pudding is in the eating," he said in essence.

Examining three forms of government opposed to American democracy, Dr. Woelner disposed of nazism, fascism and communism with brief and rapid strokes, and returned to the democracy of our country today which, good or bad, must be judged by its results.

"We Have More"

"Americans, he said, 'are better off than any other people, either today or at any other time. We have one-eighth of the world's population, and 60 per cent of the wealth. Even in our worst depression periods we have more than any others.'"

Dr. Woelner is a small man with a shock of unruly hair, a face he likened to Ben Turpin's, and a tenor voice of considerable power. His hands and shoulders gesticulate and sway with every telling phrase. He mixes Plato, Spinoza and Nietzsche, liberally translated into the American argot, tellingly and casually into his discourse. And he leaves the downright boasting tenor of his talk with a dry and scathing wit, as often as not directed at himself.

Tribute to Rogers

Last night he told stories, laughed at himself and the world, paused for a moment in solemn tribute to Will Rogers, and in his next breath characterized Chic Sale as one of the world's greatest architects, and a truly great and noble-browed philosopher."

He told of his journeys through 37 countries, of giving the fascist salute to Mussolini.

"When in Rome," he explained, "I do as the English in Dublin. I have learned to travel."

Disposes of Dictators

He disposed of Mussolini and Hitler. "They are not tall men," he said. "Likewise to Lincoln. Then," he added, "think of their countries, and where they are heading. You dispose of the menace of Nazism and Fascism, which are essentially the same."

"Communism was proven a failure in old Athens, when Plato, he called him the original brain-truster," wrote his 'Republic,' and after 20 years of striving found it could not be made to work."

By three things can a nation be judged. First of these are its objectives, second the instruments of their accomplishment, and third the results obtained. The American objective he summed up in three telling words from the preamble of the constitution evolved by our fathers: "We, the people."

Democracy's Objective

The greater good of all the people, he said, has always been the objective of American democracy, and the results of this striving are apparent on only casual examination.

But with the instruments he found fault.

"The founders of our nation," he said, "with great wisdom established three branches of government, one to make laws, one to enforce them, one to adjudicate them. It is a good system of putting the man in power to check on the man in power."

"Those other forms of government," he reasoned, "will fail, because they are built on the principle that the man at the head is the great man. But the one who follows him will not be."

'We Have Deviated'

The original aim of the American form of government was to put the ablest men of the community in the seats of the mighty. "We have somewhat deviated from that aim," he said.

"If we were truly wise, all our politicians would pool their resources on the common problems of the day. This troublesome time is not the one for rancor and treachery."

"But this we know—that our American problems are going to be solved in the American way. What we have been and stood for has brought us this far. It will take us farther."

Tribute to Chamber

In his introductory remarks Dr. Woelner paid special tribute to the chamber of commerce.

"It is the one agency everyone can understand," he said. "Its purpose is to put money in the bank. Happy is the community that has tall men to transcend bitterness and dress into the gold of good-will and happiness. That, I take it, is the primary function of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce, and the primary function of this dinner tonight."

Preceding the address of the evening, President W. H. Spurgeon of the chamber introduced honor guests, including members of the executive committee in charge of the dinner, members of the board of directors, and E. B. Smith, member of the original board of SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 22.—Saddened East England country folk mourned today at the bier of King George V, lying in the tiny, flag-draped chapel of the church on the Sandringham royal estate.

Norfolk neighbors of the late ruler filed slowly past the royal casket, on which rested a single white floral cross from the Queen Mother Mary.

King Arrives

The dead king's eldest son, newly proclaimed King Edward VIII, came back tonight from the proclamation ceremonies in London.

He and the accompanying royal party arrived at Sandringham House at 5:35 p. m. to be greeted by 500 villagers who had stood at the gate home an hour in a biting cold wind.

The Queen Mother, who previously had gone to the church to pray beside her late husband's coffin, welcomed the new king to the house.

Family Assembled

Every member of the royal family with the exception of the Duke of York's children was assembled here tonight with King Edward's arrival.

Four employees of the rustic estate, dressed simply in their best Sunday black suits, stood immobile at the four corners of the hall as the local residents bade farewell to the man and monarch they knew as friend.

Visitors Inspected

A half-dozen Norfolk constables scrutinized each visitor to see that he was wearing either a black tie or a mourning arm-band.

The mourners entered through the rear door of the church and passed slowly up the center aisle of the chapel, which seats scarcely 100 persons, past the King's plain oaken coffin.

No member of the royal family was present.

The coffin was covered completely by the royal standard, on which rested the Queen's floral piece, fashioned of a dozen varieties of flowers grown in the Sandringham greenhouses.

The country people, many of whom trudged miles across the heath and moors or through the Anglian forest to pay their last respects to the King, were bundled up for protection from the wintry east coast winds.

Many Kneel Pray

None was permitted to pause long before the pier although many dropped silently to their knees and prayed as the queue waited patiently in the dim chapel, illuminated by two flickering candles.

Residents who had known the King all his life wept openly. Women's handkerchiefs fluttered as they dried their eyes.

The royal bier rested near a magnificent golden carved altar, donated 10 years ago by Rodman Wanamaker in tribute to King Edward VII, father of King George.

Tonight the church will be closed to the public as the royal family gathers for its memorial service.

Promptly at noon tomorrow, the body of the 70-year-old King will be taken on a gun carriage to the nearby Wolferton station. Thence it will go by train to London to lie in state at Westminster hall until Tuesday.

PARIS, Jan. 22. (AP)—The government of Premier Pierre Laval went down today as he and his ministers resigned in the face of political dissensions.

Laval had held office since June 7, 1935, a comparatively long time in recent French history. It was the 100th government of the third republic to hold power and to be withdrawn.

Support Withdrawn

The immediate cause of Laval's overthrow was the withdrawal of support by Radical-Socialist party factions.

It climaxed a long political feud in which Edouard Herriot, minister of state, resigned as president of the Radical-Socialists and then withdrew his support from Laval.

The whole cabinet met in session today with Laval. Resignations were submitted to the premier by Herriot, Joseph Paganon, Minister Maupiol, minister of pensions, and William Bertrand, minister of merchant marine.

War Policy Blamed

One of the reasons for the hostility of the political left wing to Laval was his handling of the Italo-Ethiopian problem with what was described as vacillation between Italy and Great Britain.

President Lebrun thanked the ministers and asked them to keep the government running until he can form a new cabinet. He immediately began a search for a new premier with the prospect that Marcel Regnier, minister of finance, might eventually be chosen.

Cooperatives will be set up to provide three clerical helpers at the Orange county hospital, work to commence on Jan. 27. The local sponsor's contribution to this project will be $300.

The third project, calling for the enumeration of the Orange county fruit and nut crop, will get under way next week, and will cost $5492, of which $464 will be donated by the county. It will employ 22 men and four women.

FOUR GOING TO TAX MEETING

Attitudes of Orange county delegates to the state conference on taxation problems, called for Feb. in Sacramento by Gov. Frank Merriam, will be set at a series of meetings to be held here and in Los Angeles during the coming week.

Tomorrow W. E. Baker of Santa Ana, Tom Talbert of Huntington Beach, Stanley Chapman of Fullerton, and George Raymer of Santa Ana will attend a meeting at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles of the regional tax committee of the state chamber of commerce.

To Give Local Views

Going as delegates of the state chamber and the Orange County Taxpayers league, they will present views of this county as the state chamber moves to develop a policy on future state taxation and possible methods of reduction. Delegates to represent the two bodies at the state meeting will be selected at this meeting, Mr. Raymer said today.

The Santa Ana chamber of commerce, through President W. H. Spurgeon, today appointed J. P. Baumgartner, R. C. Holmes and Howard I. Wood to represent the local chamber in Sacramento.

Policies of the chamber probably will be set at a meeting of the board of directors slated for next Monday.

The chairman of the state association of county supervisors will appoint two representatives from that body to attend the meeting, with a possibility that W. C. Jerome will attend from Orange county.

The problem of local attitudes to the question is said to be important, as a move in Southern California to obtain blanket instructions for its delegates is reported to be under way.

Due to population preponderance in the south, this section of the state can virtually control any steps directed at a revision of state tax policies, provided a balance between the metropolitan Los Angeles area and the agricultural sparsely-populated counties can be worked out to the mutual advantage of both, it was stated today.

Could Be Gravity Flow

If Los Angeles county sewage were brought in, it is anticipated that it could be brought largely by gravity flow. If reclaimed at a plant in the upper part of the county it then could be distributed either by sinking it in the Santa Ana river, from where it would be pumped, or in surface distribution systems. Reclamation of Orange county sewage would necessitate plants lower in the county, from which the reclaimed water would have to be pumped back to the consuming areas.

Riverside county leaders are reported to be planning an attempt to get federal aid for a dam at Jurupa, three miles below Mt. Rubidoux on the Santa Ana river. The dam would cost about $7,300,000 and would impound 65,000 acre feet of water.

FORMER SANTA ANA MAN DIES IN HUNTINGTON PARK

Friends of L. B. McReynolds, former vegetable salesman in Santa Ana, received word of his death yesterday at his home in Huntington Park.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 o'clock at the Free Methodist church in Vernon.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah; three sons and four daughters. Mrs. Pearl Flynn, one of the daughters, lives in Fullerton.

Allocation of funds for six Orange county Works Progress administration projects, five of them "white-collar" jobs, to cost approximately $260,000, has been made by the United States comptroller and immediate start authorized, County Manager Dan Mulherson announced today.

Rednet Control Planned

Funds aggregating $22,255 were set aside for the immediate start of rodent control work throughout the county. This project will employ 28 men and one woman, and will cost Orange county $3907.

O. J. Linnartz, Olive, doesn't know whether to blame the AAA or the hen, but he claims to have a "believe it or not" oddity produced by one of his flock of chickens.

Production "with a string on it" isn't unusual in governmental control of products, he remarked today, but it is really unusual when a pullet strays so far from the ordinary procedure as to lay an egg with an actual string attached.

That's what one of the Linnartz flock did today. While investigating the hencoop for a possible breakfast delicacy, Mr. Linnartz discovered a soft-shelled egg with a string two inches long and a quarter-inch wide attached to the large end. The string was of the same material as the shell.

He's produced as to whether or not the pullet was "stringing" him. The egg was laid by a six-months-old New Hampshire pullet, a breed uncommon on the Pacific Coast, the owner said today.

G.O.P. LEADS DEMOCRATS IN CITY

Orange county was still in the Republican column today, it was indicated by figures released by County Clerk J. M. Backs. The city of Santa Ana also has one member of the Townsendite party.

So far, registration has uncovered 4486 Republicans and 4273 Democrats in Santa Ana, Mr. Backs said. This is a small lead, but if maintained throughout the county, it would amount to a larger figure.

Los Angeles county, on the other hand, is going Democratic in a big way. Figures published today showed 208,399 Democrats and 134,544 Republicans in that area.

In addition to the Republicans and Democrats listed for Santa Ana, Mr. Backs said there are 12 Socialists, 13 Independents, 29 non-partisans, 34 Prohibitionists, one Progressive Republican, and 187 who declined to state their parties. This makes a total for the city of 9036 voters registered since Jan. 1.

The normal registration for the city, expected to be attained before registration closes, is 18,000, said Mr. Backs. Tabulations for other cities in the county are expected in a few days.

BIG OIL LEASE QUITCLAIMED

Santa Ana property owners who leased 1000 acres to the Continental Oil company for drilling purposes March 4, 1935, were notified today by the Los Angeles office of the company that quitclaim deeds have been filed with the Orange county recorder's office.

The Continental company has quitclaimed all its rights, title and interest to the Santa Ana community oil and gas lease drawn up with approximately 60 owners of property from First street to the north to Edinger on the south, and from Bristol on the east to the Santa Ana river. Owners of the plot were paid $15 per acre as a bonus.

Drilling operations, began Oct. 1, 1935, were halted the following month after a well had been drilled 4411 feet in an 801-acre field belonging to Ernest McClure, on Monte Vista street west of Lake street. Geologists of the company reported unfavorable tests at this depth.

S. C. TO REPAY ALL WARRANTS

Receipt of $27,551 by William Holmes, city clerk of San Clemente, with which all warrants outstanding against the city to Sept. 30, 1935, will be retired immediately, was announced today by Den M. Acres, city tax collector there.

Warrants outstanding total $16,940, according to the city clerk. The remainder of the funds will be applied on the 1932 water works bonds interest and sinking fund and the 1932 municipal refunding bond and sinking fund, it was announced.

Another call on warrants is expected to be made in a few days, according to Mr. Holmes.

PROVED BY 2 GENERATIONS

GENEVA, Jan. 22. (AP)—The League of Nations announced tonight the conclusion of a mutual assistance pact between Great Britain, France, Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia, to operate if Italy attacks any one of them.

Shortly before, the league committee of 18 had voted to create a special committee to decide upon the practicability of an oil sanction against Italy.

An Italian spokesman said Italy planned to protest to the league against the Mediterranean mutual assistance scheme, put through at Britain's initiative.

League officials said the oil sanction decreased the likelihood that an embargo on oil would be declared against Italy.

Plainly alluding to the United States, Maxim Litvinoff of Russia opposed the suggestion that the oil committee should meet next week on the grounds that the league should first be determined. He was overruled.

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

DAN MULHERON has "steamed" his last Coast association meeting.

Last night they replaced Dan as president, electing Elmer Hughes, horseshoe-pitching mayor of Seal Beach. But, before Dan relinquished his gavel, he had the last word, by showing through recommendations of the nomination committee in the approved Mulhaddon fashion.

The crowd liked it.

Seen at the association meeting: Tom Talbert, genial mayor of Huntington Beach, orating. He welcomed the crowd to his city and threw around lots of flowers while doing so. Judge C. P. Patten, being accommodating and friendly, as usual. Dave Prenter, Dana Point booster, discussing this and that. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Crawford, both talking about South Laguna. C. D. Lindsay, supporting Santa Fe. Dr. C. O. Huston, Costa Mesa, talking of all things—about Christmas lighting. J. P. Greeley, veteran Balboa, being reelected as treasurer. Bill Gallienne, Huntington Beach booster, making everyone comfortable. Sharkie Plummer, worrying about lateness of the meeting. . . and lots of others.

San Diego County residents seem to be waking up to value of their beaches, according to reports of visitors at the Coast meeting.

For years, they pointed out, the county has been preserving the beaches, but has done nothing to develop them.

The time has arrived, several speakers said, to start development of every possible mile of coastline—visitors from Los Angeles overflow from their county as far south as San Diego in their search for nice beaches. It's money for the county to have the visitors stop along the coastline, and every possible action should be taken to make the beaches attractive for visitors, they claimed.

About right, isn't it?

Dr. Floyd Beckwith, president of the California Beaches association, told in dollars how much visitors are worth. He claimed that where possible oil wells should be drilled from back of the beaches, "whippedstocked," so that the state and county and city could get their just share of the oil money. Funds should be used for development of the beaches, he argued.

That's an idea, anyway.

We're still applauding the Fullerton Junior chamber of commerce for the "fast one" pulled on the rest of Southern California in obtaining Admiral Richard E. Byrd for a lecture in Fullerton on Saturday.

They even stepped in ahead of Los Angeles. The admiral appears there a day or so after his Fullerton appearance.

If we remember correctly, Bill Gilmore contacted the polar explorer while in the east this summer and arranged for the affair. Pretty smart, huh?

Incidentally, Lloyd Verry, junior chamber president, says the sorts of stories are going around the county about prices to be charged at the Saturday lecture.

People are hearing that huge admission prices are to be charged, he said yesterday, somewhat indignantly. He added that two bucks was the highest price charged for seats.

Lloyd's already acting worried about being master of ceremonies at the lecture. He's to introduce the admiral, and is sort of on the spot. It's going to be a tough job.

Bill Quelae and Bob Hatfield are going to fetch the speaker from Los Angeles, and are arranging a police escort so they'll be able to maneuver the celebrity through traffic with all possible safety. The admiral's worth money to 'em.

Visited the Anaheim police department yesterday.

There appeared to be a grave conference in progress. Several policemen were gathered around the chief—even P. J. Andrade and Sergeant Pifer were taking part in the earnest conversation.

Thinking that perhaps we could get a line on a murderer or a raid to halt gambling on marble machines or something, we listened in.

They were discussing overhauling Chief Jim Bouldin's front lawn, and the proper brand and proportion of fertilizer to use on it.

So, there wasn't any big story, after all. But we decided that maybe policemen are human, like the rest of us.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Elmer J. Hughes, mayor of Seal Beach, was unanimously elected president of the Orange County Coast association at a meeting in the Golden Bear cafe here last night. Several representatives from San Diego county seeking information for establishment of a like organization there attended the session.

Mr. Hughes replaced Dan Mulhaddon, San Clemente, who served the past year as president. Other officers elected were Leslie Kimmel, Laguna Beach, first vice president; Carl Hankey, San Juan Capistrano, second vice president; Judge C. P. Patten, Huntington Beach, third vice president; J. P. Greeley, Balboa, treasurer, and Harry Welch, Newport Beach, secretary.

Other officials of the organization elected last night include honorary vice presidents, Mrs. E. L. Doherty, John Stephen McGroarty, H. H. Cotton, James Irvine, George A. Rogers, Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, and P. H. Stanton.

District vice presidents include Judge Fred S. Warner, San Clemente; D. W. Leyden, Doherty Park; David T. Prenter, Dana Point; E. L. Crawford, South Laguna; Roy Peacock, Laguna Beach; Ted Cook, Emerald Bay; Don Kirby, Balboa; C. R. Browning, Irvine ranch; Sam Meyer, Newport; D. J. Dodge, Costa Mesa; Joseph P. Smith, Santa Ana; S. W. Stanley, Tustin; N. M. Blaney, Huntington Beach; Mrs. J. A. Armitage, Sunset Beach; Hugh T. O'Connor, Los Alamitos and C. W. Meacham, Seal Beach.

Others Named

Vice-presidents-at-large are Charles R. Furr, Huntington Beach; V. D. Johnson, Orange; V. D. Neff, county engineer; Dr. F. W. Slaughter, Santa Ana, and Ross Shafer, Tustin.

Dr. Floyd Beckwith, president of the California Beaches association, was speaker of the evening. He told of value of beaches to the state as a whole and explained plans for a state-wide fight for further development of the coastal areas.

"It is time that people in districts not adjacent to the beaches take some of the responsibility in their development and maintenance," he said. "We feel that the state should assume charge of and add to the present beach system, which is now a burden to individual communities."

Urges Whippedstock

Dr. Beckwith urged whippedstocking of oil wells to reach oil beneath the ocean, with division of profits between county and city, and use of the funds for development. He concluded with an appeal for support from the local group, remarking that a state-wide educational and advertising campaign for the beaches will be started soon.

Other speakers were Edwin Hastings, chairman of the board of supervisors, San Diego county, who told of moves for beach preservation; W. T. Hart, state park commissioner, who told of plans to interest eastern capital in developing the beaches; Frank Ford, president of the San Diego county development federation and Fred W. Mitchell, editor of the Carlsbad Journal.

Dr. Huston Gives Prizes

Dr. C. G. Huston, chairman of the Christmas lighting committee, officially awarded prizes to communities and individuals for recent contest, lauding the city of Huntington Beach for winning the sweepstakes and many other prizes.

Dr. Huston thanked the Merchants association of Seal Beach, Huntington Beach city and chamber of commerce, Coast Mesa chamber of commerce, Laguna Beach, South Coast Improvement association, Dana Point Development association, San Clemente chamber of commerce, the Long Beach Press Telegram and the Edison company for donating prizes for the contest.

Resolutions were adopted thanking communities, organizations and newspapers for support during the past year.

The next meeting of the group will be held Feb. 18 at Laguna Beach. President Hughes announced.

AIR MAIL ARRIVES LATE

SURVIVES ARKANSAS CRACKUP

LAGUNA BEACH.—Surviving the worst airplane disaster in this country and lying for hours in the muddy slime of an Arkansas swamp, a letter addressed to William C. Neill, real estate operator, arrived in Laguna only three days later. It was from his mother.

Postmarked Jan. 13 from Sarasota, Fla., the mud-smeared, soaked, but still legible letter came the rest of its faithful journey in a separate government envelope from the postoffice department of Little Rock, Ark.

After weathering the terrific crack-up of the passenger plane that killed 17 passengers in the swamps near Goodwin, Ark., and showing evidence of being completely submerged in muddy water, a notation was clipped to the letter which read: "Damage due to air mail interruption near Goodwin, Ark., Jan. 14, 1936." Then, in a separate envelope, it was re-sent to its destination.

Whereas, it is fitting and proper that we, the citizens of Fullerton, do honor to this great citizen:

LAGUNA GARDEN CLUB TO MEET

LAGUNA BEACH.—The first meeting of the year for the Laguna Beach Garden club will be held at Hotel Laguna next Friday at 2 p. m.

ORANGE.—West Orange Farm Center members heard a talk by Ray Wiser, vice president of the California Farm Bureau federation, following a pot-luck dinner at West Orange school last evening.

Mr. Wiser pointed out that individual members form the organization, the key of which is co-operation, defined as ability to think individually and act collectively. Hence the problem of the farm bureau is that of the individual, he said. It serves by doing for the individual, in a collective way, that which he cannot do for himself, he added.

The barrier to profit is a high interest rate, and it is the purpose of the bureau to demand a 3½ per cent rate by law, on ranch mortgages, the speaker said. The farm bureau is seeking to do away with unfair contracts between producer and canner or packer, and hopes to build a contract more fair to the grower, he added.

Excise tariffs were also discussed by the speaker, and a period of questions and answers was conducted. E. D. Flaherty, Santa Ana, introduced the speaker, and a short business meeting was in charge of the president, William Feldner. A windbreak tour was announced for Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Roy Miller place on Tustin avenue, north of Seventeenth street. A citrus management school, was also announced, to be held Feb. 13 and 14 in the auditorium of the Orange Union High school, in charge of Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor.

LAGUNA BEACH.—Surviving the worst airplane disaster in this country and lying for hours in the muddy slime of an Arkansas swamp, a letter addressed to William C. Neill, real estate operator, arrived in Laguna only three days later. It was from his mother.

Postmarked Jan. 13 from Sarasota, Fla., the mud-smeared, soaked, but still legible letter came the rest of its faithful journey in a separate government envelope from the postoffice department of Little Rock, Ark.

After weathering the terrific crack-up of the passenger plane that killed 17 passengers in the swamps near Goodwin, Ark., and showing evidence of being completely submerged in muddy water, a notation was clipped to the letter which read: "Damage due to air mail interruption near Goodwin, Ark., Jan. 14, 1936." Then, in a separate envelope, it was re-sent to its destination.

Fullerton Safe

Anaheim's Pixley

With Pacific Coast baseball headin' straight for what may be its best season in a decade or so, news that the Hollywood Stars will transfer their home activities to San Diego rocks the baseballers from that city to Seattle, Wash.

This department thinks it definitely is a step in the right direction. Certainly it is along the path urged by leading baseball scribes and of seconded humbly by yours truly—i. e., that in both Los Angeles and San Francisco there is too much baseball.

If the Hollywood shift goes through Los Angeles fans will have but one team to pay homage to, and there will not be a ball game at Wrigley Field every day in the week—except the usual Monday holidays. San Francisco's Missions are nosing around for a place to camp, too. Seattle and Portland, one-team towns, have far outdrawn other coast cities in baseball attendance. San Diego, it is our guess, should do very well for the Sheiks.

Of special interest to Orange county fans, however, is the news that Hollywood will continue to do its spring training at Fullerton, whether or not the deal with San Diego goes through. We'll have a chance to see at least some spring baseball.

Then, on the other side of the baseball ledger, this: Anaheim has fumbled a chance to have the Portland Beavers train there. The Portlanders have gone reluctantly back to their foggy old Ventura camp grounds, where, at the end of the season, they will once more swear never to return again. Yet they will, unless Anaheim or some other forward-looking community grabs 'em.

Orange county's representation in the realm of sports extends far and wide, but one of the most unusual sportsmen this locale boasts is Ray Pixley, heavy footed race pilot at the Ascot speedway. Ray, an Anaheim lad, has gained a reputation as considerably a thrill furnisher at the Valley boulevard oval but his ambition does not stop with his Southland activities.

Today we were handed the tip that Ray is shopping around for a new car—one that he can drive in the 500-mile Indianapolis classic this May. You have to be a "somebody" in the racing business to get a 500-mile entry, along with the backing that is needed. Ray is after it, all right, so watch for him. He's a modern young chap and a really rare fellow. He's the essence of mildness—he neither smokes nor drinks and spends his spare hours making model airplanes. Yes, and playing with them.

With a new sports year just ready to swing into stride, Orange county sports followers can proudly keep their eyes on these "hometowners":

Fullerton's Arky Vaughan, heavy-gunner for the Pittsburgh Pirates... Anaheim's Ray Pixley at Ascot and Indianapolis... Santa Ana's Bill Hawkins at Stanford... Garden Grove's Ray Hapes at Mississippi... Laguna Beach's Ernie Johnson all over the baseball map... Santa Ana's Larry Lutz who's the Detroit Lions play the college all stars in Chicago next summer... Garden Grove's George Blacholder who probably will be still pitching for Philadelphia... and Ed Hall in polo... Any or all of 'em will be in headlines all over the nation from now on in.

Pasadena Favored Here in First Game; Alvin Reboin to Perform

Rugby lineups for the Pasadena Athletic club and Santa Ana Junior college fifteens, who collide in the lightning-fast game in the Municipal bowl here at 8 o'clock Friday night, were announced today by Coach Al Reboin of the Dons.

Reboin, ex-Saint football hero who became one of the best rugby players on the Pacific coast while at U. S. C. last season, is determined to popularize the English game here, and hopes the Eastern conference eventually will sponsor the sport.

The Santa Ana coach will play the important stand-off position for his Dons when they tackle the Pasadenaans, who are expected to win handily because of their wide experience. The Athletics were undefeated in 1935 while winning six and deadlocking two games. This season they have beaten the Vandals, 31-5, and Golden State, 6-0. Santa Barbara upset them last week, 3 to 0.

Hollywood Sheiks May Move to San Diego

Lane Says Rental Too High at Los Angeles; Reds Seek Spot

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—The Hollywood baseball franchise in the Coast league will be transferred to San Diego for the 1936 season.

H. W. Lane, president of the Hollywood club, said he had reached a tentative agreement with San Diego city officials to bring the club here. The only provision is that San Diego provide a suitable park. Lane requested that a sliding scale be worked out for rental of the park, and said he would accept a five-year agreement.

Officials plan to construct the park near the waterfront as a WPA project.

Lane said rental for his club at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, where Hollywood has played for several years, was entirely too high, and that it was imperative he move elsewhere.

The Hollywood Stars are due to open the season March 28 in Los Angeles. Lane said he would arrange to put the team on the road after a two-week stand in Los Angeles in order to give sufficient time to prepare a ball park in San Diego.

In Los Angeles, David P. Fleming, president of the Los Angeles club, joint tenants with the Stars of Wrigley Field, declared:

"Off Bill Lane wants to move his Hollywood club to San Diego, that's his privilege. Let them move out of Wrigley Field if they want to, we won't try to stop them."

LEADER DOUBTS '36 MOVE IS WISE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Doubt San Diego can support a Pacific Coast league ball club was expressed here today by Charles Graham, president of the San Francisco Seals.

He said league directors must approve before Bill Lane can carry out his announced plan to transfer his Hollywood franchise. "Before Lane can move his club to San Diego he must first make written application to the league," Graham explained. "A two-thirds vote is necessary. I am willing to approve whatever the other directors feel is necessary for the good of the league."

Lane's announcement brought the flat statement from Joe Bearwald, president of the San Francisco Missions, that his club would not move. A transfer to Los Angeles had been suggested.

His Majesty, Edward VIII, Is Good Golfer

When he was Prince Edward of Wales, Britain's new ruler was an amateur golfer of note, often playing with Bobby (Grand Slam) Jones, Lawson Little and other American players. Golf followers declared the prince, shown above in typical golfing pose, had fine form and was a "really good golfer."

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The all-around sportsman who now rules Britain's vast domain as Edward VIII, ranks among the most enthusiastic if not also the best of all royal exponents of the royal game of golf.

His interests in sport cover a wide range from horse racing and polo to boxing and tennis, but over the past decade his personal prowess has been most conspicuous on the links and his golfing associations have helped most to increase his international popularity.

Edward's concentration upon golf coincided with the appeal of his parents to forego the hazards of riding, cross country or on the polo fields. Every time the prince had a spill or met with some minor mishap while in the saddle, the royal household experienced a chill.

Edward took most of his golfing lessons from such British professionals as Ted Ray and Archie Compston. He welcomed advice, in several friendly matches, from the American veteran, Walter Hagen. He was a great admirer of "The Haig" as well as of Bobby Jones, with whom he played in 1920, the year the Georgian was on his way to the "grand slam." Later Edward remarked to friends that he thought Jones' feat never would be duplicated.

Two years ago at Prestwick, the prince visited with Lawson Little, the Californian who now rules the amateur golf world.

Good Recovery
The prince's recovery from a trap, on the last hole, was a factor in enabling him and Jones to finish all square with Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, then the American amateur champion, and Sir Victor Sassoon in their friendly foursome at Sunningdale six years ago.

It was in connection with that match that O. B. Keeler, famous American golf writer and chronicler of Jones' deeds, recalls the interview the prince gave on golf a few days later, which was called to America, then cabled back again after a British news agency obtained permission from the Associated Press to republish it.

At the Walker cup matches at Sandwich, Keeler told the prince, "it was your good play and not Bobby's that squared that match."

Deer Fly, Loafer, Brilliant Duke, Erbus and Revon also ran.

Santa Ana at Alhambra.

By PAUL WRIGHT
Fur will fly down south Friday night when the basketball varieties of Long Beach Poly and San Diego High schools step out on the San Diego pavilion to decide which is entitled to Coast Preparatory league recognition.

Long Beach's yellow-and-green clad champions turned on the steam in the second half to wallop Santa Ana's color-stationed Saints, 36-11, before 600 fans in the grey-walled Armory gym at Long Beach last night; and Mike Morrow's San Diego Greystones remained serious challengers by felling the Mountaineers Moors at Alhambra in the afternoon, 26-23.

Dopesters Puzzled
Comparative scores offer nothing except a headache to dopesters attempting to pick a winner in the San Diego-Long Beach conflict. Long Beach won a 21-19 thriller from the border city five in the first round, yet lost an astonishing 28-13 verdict to the Alhambraans when San Diego has beaten on two occasions.

The Saints put up a gallant fight to hold their own in the first quarter at Long Beach, 5 to 5, and were trailing but nevertheless still in the ball game at the half, 9 to 16. No sooner did the third period get under way, however, than Reece (Pinky) Greene's outfit folded up like an accordion. The Saints' passers carelessly, and their guarding weakened to allow Captain Bob Garboud and his Long Beach teammates to rush under the basket with blinding speed.

Garboud collected nine of his leading total of 13 points on quick, short shots in the second half while Charley Church's Jackrabbits smothered the Orange county boys, 20 to 2. Santa Ana cashed in on two of four foul shots for the Saints' only points in the last 16 minutes of play.

Ed Eastham's turned knee held up well, and the rugged center was able to perform most of the evening, but Bill Milligan was lost the entire game with broken-down arches. He was replaced by Larry Tway.

Reserves Play
When Long Beach more than doubled Santa Ana's score in the third quarter, 22-10, Coach Greaves pressed into service an experienced yet scrappy second string of Bill Semmachers and Byron Barnett, forwards; Hal Eastham, center; Merle Morris and Bill Musick, guards.

Santa Ana journeys to Alhambra Friday night, and winds up conference play with San Diego here the following Friday.

Class Bees Lose
Deadly shooting from side-court sparked Long Beach Poly's Class B five to a 34-9 decision over Clyde Cook's "Little Saints" in last night's preliminary. Harold Tucker, guard, shone for Santa Ana.

Junior Collegians and Oilers Mix in Prep Pavilion at 7:30

How junior college basketball compares with the Commercial league variety will be answered in Andrews' gym on the high school campus at 7:30 tonight.

Santa Ana's Dons, smarting under a 27-21 reversal during unfavorable playing conditions at Oceanside last night, will match Juan Capistrano stars with M. M. (Buster) Devine's fast-traveling Shell Oilers, currently tied for the second-half lead in the city's potent Commercial loop.

Manager Devine of the Shell outfit will floor a combination of ex-San Juan Capistrano stars and Mike Reynolds, former Stanford captain and center. Pete LeGages, who set the Orange league afire in scoring two seasons ago, and Harry (Red) Irwin will be at forward, with Bob Errecarte at center; George A. Will at guard. All recently played with the Cougars at Capistrano.

Erdhaus Recovers
Coach Al Reboin will have his Dons at full strength, Center Fred Erdhaus having recovered from an eye injury received at Riverside last week. Tommy Lacy and Harry Stanley, forwards; Leonard Lockhart and John Henry, guards, will team with Erdhaus on Reboin's first string, assigned to alternate with a unit including Ken Nissley and Lloyd Buchfinck, forwards; Clarence (Ray) Riggs, center; Clarence (Ray) Riggs and John Jennison, guards.

Out of place in Oceanside's low-ceiling "cheese-box," measuring only 72 feet in length, the Dons found difficulty in sinking their shots against Blanchard Brady's Spartans, and Oceanside to win the game in the first half by doubling the score, 20 to 10. Santa Ana slightly dominated the next 20 minutes, 11 to 7. Shafter, Oceanside forward, was high for the evening with 13 points.

Reboin considered the trip south a waste of time, what with loose officiating and inadequate playing quarters. It was a return engagement to a game which Santa Ana won, 24-18, here last month.

Phoenix Due Here
Phoenix, Ariz., jays on its annual barnstorming tour into California, will stop here next Tuesday night to play the Dons.

STANFORD, SAN JOSE BREAK

PALO ALTO, Jan. 22. (AP)—San Jose state college's open advocacy of aiding football players has slapped back at the school's athletic schedule again.

Dr. Joseph C. Hincey, Stanford faculty representative, announced athletic relations between San Jose and Stanford have been definitely broken off.

This breaks baseball and boxing days for this month. The baseball nines were to have met Saturday, and the boxers on Jan. 31.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22. (AP)—Gino Garibaldi, St. Louis Italian, grapples for the second time in eight days with Vincent Lopez, California-recognized heavyweight champion, at the Olympic tonight.

The rematch was ordered by the state athletic commission after Garibaldi contended he was given a short count when Lopez took the deciding fall last week.

ONLY FIVE ARE ELIGIBLE TO WED KING

LONDON, Jan. 21. (AP)—With the ascendency of the 41-year-old Prince of Wales to the throne, the last "hope" that he might marry a commoner disappeared today for literally thousands of women throughout the world.

For years, particularly since his visit to the United States and Canada in 1919, a torrent of letters has poured in on the blue-eyed bachelor "prince charming"—blushing timid billets doux, or bold, circé-styled "proposals."

Now, as bachelor King, the new monarch was far removed from such romantic offerings. By the law governing royal marriages in England, the King may marry only a royal princess.

Five princesses, headed by Irene of Greece and Juliana of the Netherlands, appeared to be the only ones eligible to sit with Edward on the British throne.

The others are Catherine of Greece, sister of Irene, both sisters of George II, king of the Hellenes; Eugenie of Greece, cousin of the Greek monarch; and Kyre of Russia, daughter of the Grand Duke Cyril.

RULER'S COFFIN IS SIMPLE ONE

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 22. (AP)—The late King George will be buried in a simple oak coffin carefully fashioned in the workshops of the royal estate by men who served the dead monarch for years. The wood used for the coffin is from trees felled on the Sandringham grounds several years ago.

NEW KING IS AIR ENTHUSIAST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22. (AP)—Col. James A. Mollison furnishes an airman's view of Great Britain's "flying king," Edward VIII. "Flying is one of his greatest enthusiasms," said Mollison, "triple conqueror of the Atlantic from east to west."

"He has an enviable first-hand knowledge of airplane motors and flying ships, having earned his wings as an air force officer. I believe it is extremely likely he will go by plane to India to be crowned emperor at a splendid durbar, instead of taking weeks for the trip in a British dreadnaught."

NEW RULER IS A RANCHER

Edward Owns Canada Estate

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 22. (AP)—Britain's new King won regard as a rancher in Alberta's southern foothills because he doffed his derby and dooned a Stetson to ride the range with rolled up sleeves and take his meals with the rest of the boys.

An impulse born as he rode through Southern Alberta's hilly byways made the Prince a Canadian rancher in his own right. His knowledge of pedigree cattle made his judgment respected. His lack of formality made him welcome in the cabins where friendship grows.

He distinguished between a ranch and a "ranch" by remarking a ranch was a paying proposition.

Bought Ranch in 1919
The prince visited Canada for the first time in 1919. It was then he bought the "E. P." In 1923 he spent two weeks there, and he took a like vacation from formality during his 1927 visit to Canada.

The purchase occurred almost casually. He went riding in the foothills country 60 miles southwest of Calgary with Prof. W. L. Carlyle, now manager of the

King George Had Annual Salary Of $2,500,000

(By The Associated Press)
What is the pay of a British King?

King George and Queen Mary received in the civil list—the parliamentary salary provision—a total of $470,000 annually (about $2,500,000 at present rates of exchange).

This included a private purse of $110,000, provisions for salaries and expenses of the royal household totalling $317,800 and $13,200 for royal bounty. In 1931 King George voluntarily accepted a reduction of $50,000 a year. It was restored last August.

What provision will be made for King Edward rests with parliament. A bachelor King may not require as large a civil list as a married one.

New British King Led Life Filled with Events; Visits to United States Recalled

(By The Associated Press)
From the cradle to the throne, the life of the former Prince of Wales has been a kaleidoscopic succession of events.

Here are some of the principal ones:
June 23, 1894—Born at White Lodge, a royal estate near London.

July 14, 1894—Christened by the Archbishop of Canterbury while Queen Victoria held the infant prince—her grandson—upon her lap. He was given seven names—Edward, Albert, Christian, George, Andrew, Patrick and David.

Served in World War
1914 to 1918—Served with the British army in France, Italy and Egypt.

1919—Visited the United States and Canada. Was showered with ticker tape in New York. Bought a ranch in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies.

1920—Toured New Zealand and Australia after passing through the West Indies and the Panama Canal with a side trip to San Diego, Calif.

1921—Visited India, Hong Kong, Japan and Borneo.

1923—Took a trip to his Canadian ranch.

1924—Made an "incognito" visit to the United States. Played with the "smart set" on Long Island, and called on President Coolidge.

1925—Traveled through West and South Africa, and crossed the Atlantic to South America.

1927—Again in Canada.

1928—Went hunting in East Africa and rushed 6000 miles back to England in 14 days when notified his father, the king, was dangerously ill.

1930—Finished his interrupted East African hunt.

1932—Opened a British trade exposition at Buenos Aires, Argentina, and visited Bermuda, Jamaica, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, Brazil, Gibraltar, Lisbon and Paris. Was made admiral-in-chief of the British auxiliary air force.

"E. P.", but at that time in charge of the late George Lane's far-flung "Bar U." They rode out of a clump of trees into a beautiful valley.

"I wish I were a rancher here," the Prince remarked.

They rode a little further and Professor Carlyle remarked: "Nothing could so please the people of Canada as for you to make a permanent home here. You could dispose of your surplus breeding stock in this country."

Paid $25 an Acre
The Prince went on to Banff and to the Pacific Coast. He returned eastward across the prairies and at Winnipeg, addressing a luncheon, announced his intention to buy a ranch.

The one he bought was the Beddingfield, which he and Professor Carlyle had come upon when he expressed his desire to be a Canadian rancher. He paid $25 an acre for 1,600 acres and leased another 2,400 acres from the Dominion.

The Prince spent two days in 1919 at the "Bar U." He completed the purchase of the Beddingfield ranch late in September of that year and obtained Professor Carlyle as his manager.

Outranking their princely uncles, the Duke of York's two daughters—Elizabeth and Margaret Rose—stand next to their father in line of succession.

Henry, Duke of Gloucester—the late King's third son, is next, followed by George, Duke of Kent. Then comes the infant prince Edward of Kent, followed by the Princess Royal and her two sons, Viscount Lascelles and Gerald Lascelles.

The federal crop reporting service forecasts 26,500,000 boxes of citrus fruits for Florida's 1935-36 season.

QUEEN MARY IS CALM

By ELMER PETERSON
SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 22. (AP)—England's courageous Queen Mary, her steady calm broken only momentarily, bore up well today under the grief of the loss of the King to whom she had been a wife for 43 years.

The first rush of public sympathy, sweeping in from all parts of the world after the death of the monarch, came to the Queen. She broke down in those last minutes just before midnight Monday, and wept as her husband died. Comforted by her eldest son, the new King Edward, she retired from the death chamber to her own room in Sandringham House.

Later regaining the sturdy self-control she displayed throughout his majesty's brief illness, she was able to telephone the tragic news to other, distant members of the royal family.

To Queen Mary, the King's death was the end of a marriage partnership which had become a vivid symbol to the empire of happy home life. Britons usually associated the royal couple with thoughts of fireside comfort.

Mary, on Monday England's queen, Tuesday became the Queen mother, divested at the moment of her sovereign husband's death of throne and title, preeminence and power.

HERE'S HISTORY OF PHRASE

By the Associated Press
Origin of the cry "The King is dead! Long live the King!" is uncertain, but some authorities assert it was first uttered at the death of France's great "Sun king," Louis XIV.

His death was announced by the captain of the royal guard from a window of the state apartment. Raising his truncheon above his head, he broke it in the center, and, throwing the pieces among the crowd, exclaimed in a loud voice: "Le roi est mort! (The king is dead!)"

Then, seizing another staff, he flourished it in the air and shouted: "Vive le roi! (Long live the king!)"

FARMERS INVITED FOR FIELD TOUR ON THURSDAY

Citrus growers, avocado growers and others interested are invited by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg to participate in a field tour Thursday, featuring windbreak planting and management problems.

The tour will start at 9:30 a. m. at Royal Mueller's place on Tustin avenue, one-fourth mile north of Seventeenth street, east of Santa Ana. The growers' tour will visit several types of windbreaks, and discussions will be given at each stop covering all phases of windbreak protection, including planting, varieties, root cutting, spacing, and benefits derived from protection.

Woodbridge Metcalf, university forester and authority on windbreaks, will be guest speaker, and with Farm Advisor Wahlberg will lead the discussions.

COUNTY CANADIAN LEADER REGRETS LOSS OF KING

Expressions of admiration for King George and regret at his passing continued to be heard today as plans went forward for a memorial service sponsored by the Canadian Legion post, James F. Watkins, commander of the post, issued the following statement on behalf of the organization:

"Upon the death of His Majesty George V, the British Empire has lost a noble monarch who reigned with gentleness and understanding. His interest in the welfare of his soldiers in France was keenly appreciated by those who served, and we ex-service men who felt his kindly presence are distressed beyond words.

World Loved Him
"The world loved him, his subjects adored him and all are saddened by his demise. Those of us who celebrated the joyousness of the occasion of his silver jubilee last summer have a happy memory and are thankful that His Majesty lived a long, useful life which meant so much to the empire in particular and the world in general.

"The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League will no doubt make arrangements for a memorial service for the local British element. The honorary chaplain, The Rev. W. J. Hatter, probably will officiate."

Following are other expressions of regret at the passing of King George:

"Britain mourns a true king," said Frank Lansdown, architect. "America mourns a true friend, the world sympathizes with the nation in the loss of a beloved monarch. Devoted subjects throughout the world will cherish and honor his memory, and hiding a tear will carry on the tradition and toast anew, 'God bless and save King Edward VIII.' We whose native land is Britain join in sympathy, admiration and respect."

The Rev. Mr. Hatter, pastor of the Church of the Messiah: "I feel the loss of the king, as I had seen him many times in London

COUNTY FARMERS END TWO-DAY SESSION WITH RESOLUTIONS

FARM BUREAU FORMULATES TAX POLICY

Governmental Economy Program Contains 10 Points

Policy of the Orange county farm bureau for 1936 in regard to the government and taxation of Orange county as formulated at sessions of the county farm convention here Monday and Tuesday contains 10 points ranging from gasoline tax expenditures to powers of the board of supervisors.

Outlined by Chairman Dian R. Gardner of the tax committee, the farm platform, briefly, is as follows:

1. We favor the principle in bond elections of separating the votes of real estate property owners from the votes of individual citizens, and requiring 50 per cent of the property owners and two-thirds of the individuals to carry a bond issue against real property.

On Gasoline Taxes
2. We are of the opinion that gasoline taxes are as high as practical, and their use should be limited to road and street purposes, including the annual principal and interest payments on highway bonds.

3. We believe that gasoline taxes are sufficient to build and maintain Orange county roads and are opposed to any additional property taxes for road purposes.

4. We believe Orange county is adequately served with roads and highways, and declare that the maintenance of existing roads and highways should have the first call on funds, and needed new additions should only be made from surplus gasoline funds as these may accumulate from year to year.

5. Education is a state function and American Farm Bureau federation and the California Farm Bureau federation hold that it is also a national function.

6. School consolidation may result in greater school efficiency and an improved curricula, but is not an economy measure.

7. The present variation in both elementary and high school costs indicates that much latitude exists for decreasing school costs without reducing educational results.

8. We favor as a principle that control of governmental functions be left in those units of government which are closest to the people, and that commissions and bureaus should be governed by representatives of the areas and peoples served.

Point to Board's Duty
9. Since the board of supervisors has very broad "home rule" powers conferred upon it through acts of the legislature and constitutional amendments, we consider it the board's duty to exercise these powers to require all units of county government to work together in unifying and simplifying county governmental functions to the end that efficiency may be increased and costs decreased.

10. We believe it is necessary that governmental budgets be balanced through reductions in costs as opposed to new sources of revenue.

Three matters pending during 1935 and not completed, and which will come up this year, Mr. Gardner outlined as the elimination of rural road tax, the reduction of county tax rates because of the addition of public utility properties to county tax rolls, and a study of and bulletin on the costs of justice courts and constables, and the efficiency of rural police work in Orange county.

Bonus Battle Headache to Every President for Past 16 Years; 4 Vetoes Used

Four Presidents used their veto power on bonus measures but none so dramatically as President Roosevelt who took the veto measure to congress in person and delivered his veto message before a joint session of the house and senate. The President is shown above speaking on that precedent-breaking occasion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The soldiers' bonus has been a headache to every president for the past 16 years.

Four have used their veto power in an effort to stave off the demands of World War veterans. Twice the President's position was sustained and twice his stand reversed by congress.

President Harding was the first to face the music. In 1922, some four years after the war ended, congress passed the first bonus measure. It provided four different types of optional settlements which the veterans were allowed to elect:

1. Adjusted service pay.
2. Paid-up endowment insurance.
3. Vocational training aid.
4. Farm or home aid.

On Sept. 19, 1922, Harding vetoed the act, and his veto was sustained.

In 1924 congress passed a bill which had as its object the issuance of adjusted service certificates. It became law after congress had overridden President Coolidge's veto May 19, 1924.

Drama Reaches Peak
In 1931 congress passed the emergency compensation act. This act provided that loans up to 50 per cent of the face value of the adjusted service certificates could be obtained. President Hoover in a vigorously worded message to congress vetoed it, but the senate overrode the veto, 76 to 17, and the house, 328 to 79.

During President Roosevelt's administration came the most dramatic skirmish between the legislative and executive branches. The issue was made in 1935 by those who wished to tie up cash bonus payments with proposed changes in the nation's monetary system. The Patman bill, providing payment of full value of the adjusted service certificates in new currency of the United States—greenbacks—passed both houses of congress.

President Roosevelt went to the

COUNTY-WIDE C. E. RALLY PLANNED

Convention Will Take Place in Santa Ana March 7 and 8

Plans for a county-wide Christian Endeavor rally March 7 and 8 were made at a meeting of the Orange County Christian Endeavor Union in the Santa Ana Evangelical church last night. Edmund Hoover, Fullerton, president, was in charge of the session.

The convention will be held in the Santa Ana Presbyterian church, it was decided. Included in plans for the affair are two pre-convention rallies, one for north Orange county and the other for the south section. The first will be held in the Placentia Presbyterian church Feb. 18, in charge of Merl Greybill, Fullerton, and Earl Dahl, Anaheim. Feb. 20 was set for the date of the second, which will be in charge of Kenneth Rohrs, Santa Ana, and Louis Ebel, Tustin.

Other plans of the union include a monthly rally Feb. 9 at the Orange Presbyterian church, in charge of Genevieve Townsend, Yorba Linda. The Rev. Seldon Newkirk, Yorba Linda Friends' church pastor, will be the speaker. A county-wide party will be held Feb. 4 at the Anaheim Christian church, in charge of Louise Craven, Anaheim.

Visitors at last night's meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Runyon, Los Angeles, and the Rev. Russell Johnson, new pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Santa Ana.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

ICICLE MAKER

There hasn't been a real icicle in Hollywood for many years, but that doesn't deter the movie prop men, who don't consider an exterior winter set well dressed unless it has icicles. Among the icicle makers Jack Baker ranks high. Once all icicles were of fiber and wet plaster with mica dust sprinkled on the surface. Baker changed the system, developing several new types. Now he makes his icicles of several layers of transparent paper, twisted and crushed into icicle form, and then dipped in wax. Baker's icicles have a peculiar advantage over those of other composition. Under studio lights the wax melts and drips exactly like water.

VOTE POLICY ON VARIOUS PROBLEMS

Plan for Solving Rural Relief Situation Is Given Support

Farmers of Orange county wound up their first annual convention yesterday, adopting a welter of resolutions dealing with subjects from hospitalization in tax-supported hospitals to the need for a federal land use program.

Delegates representing the dairy, lima bean, home, avocado, sugar beet and vegetable departments, and the rural relief and public utilities committees appeared before the convention with resolutions and programs for approval. The sessions were held in Santa Ana's new city council chambers. Two important resolutions evolved from the rural relief committee, one dealing with government purchasing and the other with farm labor in California. The first requested the federal government and the state of California to give preference and precedence in their purchases of commodities for their operation, to domestic production and to products of farmer cooperatives, wherever possible.

One on Farm Labor

The second, stating that the administration of relief in California had resulted in a denial to California of adequate farm labor, urged changes in rules and regulations of relief administration that would accomplish the following results:

- 1—All persons physically able to perform manual labor to be denied relief whenever work is available;
- 2—No wage scale or relief allotments to be established which would make it more desirable to loaf than to work;
- 3—Competition between agricultural production areas to be considered in establishing relief wage scales;
- 4—Exceptional cases not to be used as a basis for rules and regulations.

Two resolutions, urging the advocacy and support of such legislation as will uphold the present practices of the California state railroad commission in using the value of service to the consumer as a measure in fixing rates, and that the California Farm Bureau Federation take all steps necessary to represent and protect the interests of producers in the revision of transportation rates, rules and regulations for intrastate movement of agricultural products by the public utility committee and adopted.

Four-fold Program

The committee also brought forth a four-fold program of intention regarding transportation for 1936, opposing the water carriers bill of 1936 on the grounds that it imposes excessive regulations of traffic by the federal government, and asking that the motor carriers act of 1935 be amended to remove its rate-making features.

The program, approved yesterday, also asked that railroads be given freer opportunities to meet competition in agricultural shipping, and requested the discontinuance of diversion of revenues obtained from gasoline taxes for any purposes other than highway building.

The vegetable department through Chairman R. J. Mitchell, brought forth eight resolutions which were adopted by the convention after considerable discussion, as follows:

Eight Resolutions

"That we advocate and support the legislation necessary to prevent the collection of license fees or taxes from producers of farm commodities for the privilege of selling and or delivering their own produce in municipalities.

"That canning fruits and vegetables be included under the specialty crops section of the Agricultural Adjustment act.

"That a study of existing contracts governing sales of agricultural products be made, that form of contract be prepared which will be equitable and protect the growers' interests, and that such contract be recommended to growers throughout the state.

Cooperative Marketing

"That we assist in the organization of cooperative marketing associations for vegetable growers.

"That we investigate the practicability of a farmers' lien upon farm commodities to secure payment of the purchase price.

"That we urge state legislation establishing compulsory grades on vegetables for canning purposes to be administered by the federal shipping point inspection service only on request by the interested parties.

"That we request legislative interim agricultural committee on marketing to make a study and investigation of mass buying, trade practices and agricultural and livestock marketing.

"That we condemn the practice and methods using 'loss leaders,' particularly on agricultural products, to attract patrons, and recommend legislation to correct unfair trade practices and methods."

Two resolutions of major importance were introduced by Vernon Heil, representing the sugar

'God's In His Heaven,' So County's First New Year's Baby Showered With Gifts

If Genevieve Gonzales, Orange county's New Year's baby, could talk, she probably would say "Thank you, so much" to scores of warm-hearted people of this area. Mary Stoddard, Journal staff writer, made an appeal to Orange county women for aid for the newborn child. Genevieve, tucked in a lovely gift blanket, is shown with a part of her many gifts.

By MARY STODDARD

Santa Ana's little New Year's baby, Genevieve Gonzales, does not lack for love today.

The little Mexican baby, first child born in Orange county after 1936 was sounded, has nestled into many an Orange county mother's heart. Her tender nesses have provided chests of clothing for Genevieve. She has smooth powders and mild soaps to keep her fresh and clean. Fresh milk has been provided for at least two months.

One kindly woman, mother of three children, whose needs are already great, offered the baby a place in her own home.

"God In Heaven"

When little Genevieve approaches the age of Brownie's Pippa, she too will know that God in 1936 was in His heaven and all was right with the world.

Appeals were opened about two weeks ago for aid for the little Mexican baby who was born without a diaper or gown of her own, about 2 a. m. Jan. 1. Her mother had been brought to Santa Ana, her former home, from a nearby sanitarium to which she now has since returned. Six other children in the family provided too much of a burden already for the father, John Gonzales. Although the grandmother had taken the child into her home, the baby had no clothes or food. Orange county was given its chance to help.

What She Got

Supplies that have been showered upon the baby include: Thirty-five diapers, one bathrobe, five bibs, 20 dresses, eight flannel gowns, two pillows, three quilts, nine blankets, 10 flannel slips, five slips, nine warm jackets and one silk, 13 pairs of stockings, 10 shirts, nine bands, 10 bonnets or caps, a tub, seven pairs of booties, one pair of panties, a pad, a mattress and a bed.

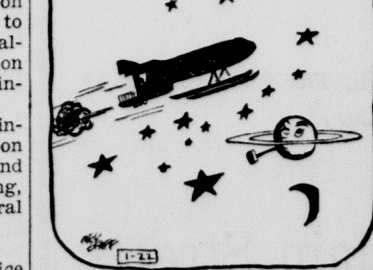

A prominent Santa Ana woman, familiar with needs of babies, spent the two $1 bills, which friends contributed, for a comb and brush set, six bars of soap, two cans of talcum powder, three bottles of baby oil two tins of boric acid, one roll of cotton, one roll of gauze, one package of nose swabs and two nursing bottles with nipples.

Several donors had clothing for beet department of the bureau, and adopted, urging repeal of the 1934 reciprocal tariff act, and abrogation of existing trade treaties, and endorsing the principle of an excise tax on foreign products competing with domestic agriculture.

The avocado department entered resolutions opposing the duty-free entry of Cuban avocados and by-products in the country, protesting reciprocal trade treaties, and urging the organization of a statewide avocado committee within the C. F. B. F. to consider problems of the industry.

LEADERS SET TO WORK ON TAX CRISIS

Supervisors Learn of Problems to Be Met at Feb. 3 Meeting

Facing a state tax crisis, California leaders today are preparing to tackle the problem at Governor Merriam's conference on Feb. 3. Out of a meeting of county supervisors at Sacramento last Saturday it is hoped that some guide to a calm financial haven can be attained. Supervisors W. C. Jerome and N. E. West of Orange county, who attended the Sacramento conclave, outlined yesterday the policies that represent the thought of leaders who gathered at the state capitol.

With income lagging far behind expenditures, the state is confronted with the necessity of drastic action. Assaults on the income and sales taxes have created the threat that an ad valorem tax on property is in the offing if the former two taxes are repealed. The gathering at Sacramento registered opposition to the ad valorem tax.

Would Save Tax Base

The Sacramento gathering expressed the belief that money can be saved by cutting out overlapping state and federal agencies affecting county affairs. It voiced the opinion that counties do not want any more of their tax base taken away from them, such as the tax on automobiles, which necessitate any increase in local tax rates. They opposed any forced consolidation of counties, explaining that machinery exists for consolidation under present laws if counties desire to avail themselves of it.

The opinion was manifest that the welfare and relief situation is at a critical stage because of cutting down of federal funds for direct relief, but no action was taken on this situation. It is expected that the governor's conference will consider this problem with great care.

Fight Road Proposal

Opposition was expressed to any program for taking county roads bodily into the state system.

Two supervisors will be named in the near future to attend the governor's conference on tax matters. They will be selected by W. A. Collins of Fresno, chairman of the state association of supervisors. These supervisors will carry with them to the meeting the thought of the state as expressed at the Sacramento gathering.

Located in the old French quarters of New Orleans, the spice and atmosphere of Creole humor, together with the apt use of folk songs in Negro-French dialect and Negro spirituals, add charm to the play chronicle of doings on the famous street.

Action and comedy revolve around the clash of lavender and old lace, in the person of two spinster aunts, with new thoughts and a new generation, in the person of a young girl from the Mississippi swamps and her Yankee suitor.

"Royal Street" will be directed for the Playhouse showing by Thomas Browne Henry.

"Yellow Jack," Sidney Howard's thrilling drama of men against the tropics, completes its sensational run at the Playhouse Saturday.

Last Saturday evening in First Christian church marked the couple's marriage.

CHILD BEHAVIOR IS TOPIC OF U. S. C. SOCIOLOGIST

Three phases of "Child Behavior" were discussed by Dr. Bessie McClenahan, professor of sociology at the University of Southern California, at the McKinley Parent-Teachers association meeting yesterday afternoon, jointly sponsored by the Adult Education department.

The talk opened the third series on parent-education being conducted under direction of Mrs. Newell Moore.

"Manners have a social and commercial value," Dr. McClenahan declared. "Ingenuity and imagination will be required of parents to make children want to behave according to social standards. Patience, faith and a flexible mind are required from the parents."

Discipline frequently demands an adult adjustment as well as a child adjustment, the speaker averred.

Third grade mothers of McKinley were hostesses at tea which followed Mrs. Mary Andrews and Mrs. Floyd Mitchell poured. Red tapers and flowers were used with crystal candelabra and decorative bowls on the table.

A pot-luck supper is being held next Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, at the school.

Santa Anans Formerly Pioneered

Although their life today is placidly ordered, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Humphrey, 120 North Lyon street, whose golden wedding anniversary was yesterday, can remember quick-passing and eventful days of pioneering as a young married couple on a Nebraska cattle ranch.

"They were busy days . . . our first two children were born on the ranch . . . we were happy, pioneering," Mrs. Humphrey, who was Irene Orchard, recalls. She baked her own bread and their butter was churned on the ranch, which was far from towns and stores.

Later, Mr. Humphrey was in the grain elevator business. Some seven years ago he and Mrs. Humphrey came to Santa Ana to make their home.

Their children, with the exception of a son, Fred, of Norwalk, Conn., were present at a family reception for 50 guests last Sunday in the Doris Kathryn tearoom.

They have a son, Frank L., and two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Garner and Mrs. Harold W. Smith, of Santa Ana, and another son, Harold L. Humphrey, who came from Ulysses, Neb., especially for the celebration.

Mrs. Gertrude Wright, Mr. Humphrey's sister, arrived from Rising Sun, Neb., a few weeks ago to spend the winter with them and be here for the celebration.

Mary Stoddard If A Woman Wants A Gigolo For A Husband, She Should Keep On Paying The Bills

By MARY STODDARD

"Who should handle the family paycheck?"

The query was put to our readers recently by a wife who has worked 10 years, bought furniture for their home, her own clothing and, as another New Year dawns, is a bit bewildered. Her husband makes a good salary, but is a good fellow and spends most of his money on fast weather friends.

He has promised at various times, when she threatened to leave him, that he would let her manage the finances, but when it comes down to the point where he must turn over his paycheck, he refuses.

In all other respects he is a model husband. The following bit of advice from a co-ed may sound a bit harsh, but isn't there more than a grain of truth in some of her assertions?

Dear Miss Stoddard: After reading "Bewildered," of January 6—This response is the same old story in the same old vein, refrain and all. Indignation isn't constructive, but one can't help feeling akin to an angry fish-wife or battle-ax, sometimes.

Bewildered is, after all, looking after her own skin, her insurance, her teeth. She isn't taking any financial chances on her husband, while other courageous women with families have to, and have had to for say 10 or 20 years through ups and downs and even depressions.

Better the lines one can read she has some fine qualities, including tolerance, but there is something wrong in Denmark about the husband's money. He's badly spoiled. She's worked 10 years too long, with good intentions, but not really helping him a fig, in the same vain position entitled to some single person.

Mr. and Mrs. Bewildered, quite likely haven't wanted for things in the past 10 years. If she gave up her position, her husband's perspective would change, change for the best, and he would be standing on bedrock, with his own two feet. He would be earning their daily bread and earning sense and be worth his salt.

Public sentiment wants house cleaning in city affairs, national politics, wants pure food laws, child labor laws, lower taxes, justice, but no one seems to have the backbone or support to do something about the army of employed married women. Too many of them are counterfeits with the alibi of having grandmothers or great-uncles to support when they actually are helping support husbands who are good only at making love and doing life's little courtesies.

CO-ED.

'FIRST LADY' TO BE REVIEWED AT EBELL

"First Lady," sparkling political play by Katherine Dayton and George Kaufman, will be reviewed.

I think there are fewer blooms in the gardens this time of year than any other. Southern Californians do plan for continuous bloom, but it seems there is always a lull, as it were, right after Christmas. The stocks and snapdragons, sweet peas and some lilies are usually on hand and a beautiful shrub or vine (it can be trimmed either way) is a yellow jasmine, jasminum nudiflorum. Beautiful clear primrose yellow, not fragrant, but a wonderful bloomer, fine for cut flowers, lasting for days.

Last week I transplanted godetias, scabiosa, cornflowers, and candytuft, all self-sown and despite no rain and cold nights they are holding their little heads up, struggling along. I know in a few weeks I'll be telling you what a lovely spring bouquet I have. Wild godetias are called "farewell to spring," but here in our gardens they come long before spring is over.

If you want a bright yellow bloom resembling a single dahlia and blooming nearly all summer, see if you can find some plants of leptozyne. It's a native and a very satisfactory garden flower . . . perennial, making a small bush about two feet high. It sometimes blooms from seeds the first year, in fact, usually does.

The cliffs by the ocean near Santa Barbara and farther south near Encinitas are covered with it.

J. S. MCCLURES ARE HOSTS AT PARTY

Scraps From a Gardener's Scrapbook

By IDA D. DEAKINS

Another week! Another Monday, and still no rain for our gardens. And a garden does like rain, no matter how thoroughly we irrigate it.

A lovely soft-falling rain is a spiritual bath as well as a physical one. Of course, flowers as children can grow with food and water and air, but how dull children become without an uplifting thought, a poem or a wonderful book to read occasionally.

And so it is with our gardens; a bit of rain freshens the blossoms as nothing else—truly a benediction.

Marian Pence Feted With Shower

Miss Marian Pence, popular Laguna girl, whose engagement to Leland Blake Montague was announced recently, was feted with a miscellaneous shower party at which Mrs. Ed Elterman entertained her bridge club last evening in her home at Laguna Beach.

Other guests included Mesdames Bruce Vegey, Ray Stein, Creed Watts, Cecil Suddaby, Clarence Watkins, Kenneth L. Savage and Misses Nadene Mason, Viva Goff, Mildred Staples, Julie Bingham and Mildred Pence.

THELMA F. WYLIE FETED AT SHOWER

Miss Thelma F. Wylie was feted recently at a kitchen shower given at the home of Mrs. Upton Pett in Santa Ana. Present from San Juan Capistrano were Mrs. M. M. Parker, Mrs. W. J. Wylie, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. D. L. Wylie, Mrs. E. A. Nydegger and Mrs. Fred L. Krueger.

Miss Wylie will become the bride of Lawrence Hunter, Santa Ana, early in February. Many pre-nuptial affairs have been given in her honor, both in her home community and in Santa Ana. The couple expect to make their home in Santa Ana.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think the real responsibility of rearing a child belongs to the home or school? I think it rests with the home. I didn't depend on the school to rear my boy. Parents understand their children better and are more vitally interested in their welfare than the school could possibly be.

Mrs. Herbert H. Adams: I surely don't think it belongs to the school. Parents can do more for their children than the school can, and a mother understands her children's needs best.

Although one of the most pronounced "dry" states, North Carolina sometimes is referred to as "the wine country."

FRANC RISES WHEN Laval RESIGNS

Stocks Climb Slightly
In Lively Session;
Many Recover

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—A better part of sentiment permeated the stock market today with resultant recoveries of fractions to 2 or more points.

The resignation of French Premier Laval and his cabinet, generally expected, did not stir the list unduly. The franc, said to have been accorded official support, moved higher and other foreign exchanges were narrow.

Share transactions were much livelier than in the preceding session. Among the principal gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Pipe, General Motors, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Deere, Case, International Harvester, Union Pacific, Douglas, Boeing, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and International Nickel. The majority of power and light issues, utilities and oils were moderately firmer.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Relative quiet buying pushed stocks up fractions to 3 or more points in today's market.

Just how much stimulation the list derived from the fall of the laval cabinet and passage of the soldiers' bonus bill by congress was said to be debatable. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 2,100,000 shares.

PLEADS GUILTY ON 'AD' COUNT

Robert B. Gould, local manager of a typewriter company, yesterday pleaded guilty in the Santa Ana justice court to charges of false advertising. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison and sworn to by D. H. Betten, head of the Betten Detective Agency, Santa Ana.

According to the complaint, which alleges violation of section 654-A of the California penal code, Gould had displayed in the window at his place of business, 415 North Sycamore street, a typewriter which he advertised as valued at $45 and for sale at $30. Mr. Betten found that the typewriter had never sold for more than $39.50 and that the prevailing price in the United States at present is $37.50.

Justice Morrison sentenced Gould to six months in the county jail. The sentence was suspended for two years with the understanding that the defendant refrain from further false advertising.

SALES INCREASE 140 PER CENT

Making good on its boast that it is "The fastest growing oil company in the west," Rio Grande today announces that its sales of first grade "cracked" gasoline during 1935 exceeded the previous year by 140 per cent.

The Rio Grande Oil Company, a western unit of the International Sinclair Holdings, also announced a 40 per cent increase in all business for the year just passed.

The feature of the company's achievement is the tremendous increase in higher priced "cracked" gasoline at time when the gasoline market has been "cracked" by price wars and the buyers have been price conscious.

"We vigorously advertised 'cracked' gasoline in newspapers during 1935," explains A. H. Harris, Rio Grande sales manager, "and the superlatives of the 'cracked' process to which Rio Grande has the exclusive rights."

"Personally, during a broadcast, my attention is always focused on the man at the controls, and this would mean in most instances that my back would be to the audience. But I always face that control engineer. He's the best friend I have while broadcasting."

THE PART THE A. E. F. played in setting problems that faced America in Europe after the World War, including peace negotiations from the signing of the Armistice to the Versailles conference, will be given by Hon. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, under President Wilson, and Gen. James G. Harbord, chief of staff of the A. E. F. under General Pershing, in a half-hour broadcast. (KECA, 6)

BIG BUSINESS GAIN SHOWN LOSS NOT'S BODY FOUND

The general condition of business in the seven far western states during 1935 stood at a higher level than in any year since 1931, says the Bank of America's business review released today.

The index of western business stood at 64.9 at the beginning of 1935, while on Dec. 31, 1935, the index had risen 14.6 per cent, standing 79.5 per cent above the depression low in March, 1933.

Highlights reported by Bank of America in this business review were:

Building permits in 51 major western cities gained 92 per cent over 1934, reaching a total of more than $109,000,000.

The value of western retail trade revealed a 10 per cent gain in 1935 over the previous year. The entire nation registered a gain of 5 per cent.

The total farm value of the principal crops harvested in California during 1935 amounted to $350,000,000. This is more than $90,000,000 greater than the value of the state's crops in 1934, $73,000,000 above 1933, and $131,000,000 greater than the value of farm products in 1932.

Retail sales of automobiles in California during 1935 far exceeded sales in the previous four years.

When figures shall have been fully assembled, tourist expenditures in California should amount to upwards $235,000,000. This amount is 32 per cent greater than in 1934, and 69 per cent greater than the expenditures in 1933.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

A ONE-HOUR CONCERT with the famous Cleveland Symphony orchestra is the rare treat in store for adult listeners tonight. (KECA, 7) Dr. Arthur Rodzinski, a favorite with local concert-goers, will conduct.

The program is to include Schubert's "First Symphony," Carpenters' "Sea Drift," and Shostakovich's "Golden Age" Suite.

IN THE FOLLOWING note, John Charles Thomas (KFI, 7) explains why he excludes visitors from his studio. His reasons are those held by a great many artists who hang a "No Visitors" sign on the studio door.

"Radio is the most intimate entertainment of them all, for it enters the home, offering entertainment to the individual at rather than one selective group. It is meant for a lone traveler on a long journey, as well as for a solitary occupant of a cabin in the middle of a woods. It is certainly not designed for a few hand-picked people whose curiosity leads them to be a spectator at a broadcast."

"I believe that visitors at the studios should be banned on the basis that the artist, in trying to please the individual, is likely to forget the much larger listening audience."

"Personally, during a broadcast, my attention is always focused on the man at the controls, and this would mean in most instances that my back would be to the audience. But I always face that control engineer. He's the best friend I have while broadcasting."

JOB'S DAUGHTERS, DE MOLAYS INSTALL OFFICERS HERE EXHIBIT TO BE 'ISLAND'

Work upon Orange county's exhibit for the Orange show at San Bernardino will begin this week, according to V. D. Johnson, county publicity director.

The theme for the 1936 Orange show will be "Islands of the South Seas." The county exhibit will be a miniature representation of Bora Bora island, reputed one of the loveliest of the South Sea island group. The island proper will be trimmed with oranges on the hill tops representing sunlight, and miniature huts, palms and trees will be used where necessary.

Small figures of people and animals will portray the preparation for a feast declared by Opu Nui, King of Bora Bora island. The sea surrounding the land will be represented by lemons or grapefruit with blue cellophane. The entire exhibit not including the part inside chain posts will cover a floor space of from 12 to 15 feet.

Others in Squad
Others in the DeMolay squad were Dick Bradley, Bill Sylvester, John Schrier, Roy Wheeler and Corwin Frazee. The Job's Daughters team included Eloise Schrier, Dora Goodman, Frankie Sylvester, Virginia Stewart, Sylvia Pope and Virginia Bruns. Each of the girls was presented a compact from the DeMolay.

W. J. Dean, superintendent of an aircraft factory, last night saw Lieut. Arthur H. Skaer, Jr., U. S. army reserve pilot. He disappeared last July 30 while making the first test flight of a new type of pursuit plane designed for army use.

The body was washed against the Santa Monica breakwater. Lieut. Skaer's disappearance became a major aviation mystery when he dropped out of sight a few minutes after flying the swift plane off the municipal airport. The plane was built at a cost said by aircraft company officials to approximate $500,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Officials of the National Geographic Society announced that the gondola of the stratosphere balloon which established a new world's altitude record on Nov. 11 is to be sent to the California Pacific International Exposition, at San Diego, Cal.

Gavel to Queen
W. J. Dean presented the incoming queen a gavel made of wood from her home state, Minnesota, a present from an aunt, Lorraine Wheeler, who was awarded her past honored queen's jewel by Eloise Schrier, who had pinned the token to a doll replica of the queen in her regalia. Past master councilor pins were presented by Ray Spough to Shelley Horton and George Matthews, and a scribe's pin to John Schrier. Musical numbers were presented by Ted and Fred Garland.

From the grand guardian council of Job's Daughters were present Mrs. Ada Lavender, chaplain, Long Beach; Mrs. Dean, first messenger; Mrs. Edna Roach, Long Beach; and Mrs. Emily Warren, Buena Park, deputies.

Dance Follows Rites
In courtesy of the sister chapter, the De Molays presented the DeMolay with a large basket of flowers.

Following installation, a dance was held in the ballroom. Fifty numbers of the floor show included a rumba tap number by Catherine Burkholder and Betty Austin, a tap dance by Lorle Buell and a Mexican nat dance by Sara Louise Ost. The entertainers had been named by the Putman School of Dancing.

Officers of the Job's Daughters for the coming year include Fern Anderson, honored queen; Mary Alice Russey, senior princess; Dorothy Carlson, junior princess; Charlotte McCausland, guide; Mary Crowe, marshal; Ralph Brown, senior custodian; Eloise Hickey, junior custodian; Ellen Neal, librarian; Mildred Pearson, musician; Helen Pierce, recorder; Marion Plette, treasurer; Lenora McFarren, chaplain; Betty Hartman, first messenger; Betty Carlson, second messenger; Helen Meyer, third messenger; Margaret Able, fourth messenger; Jewel Thebeau, fifth messenger; Euphonia Neer, inner guard; Jane Austin, outer guard; Lorraine Wheeler, scribe.

On the Guardian council are Mrs. William Dean, Frank Sawyer, Mrs. Harry Crowe, Mrs. Guy Christian, Mrs. Plummer Bruns, Mrs. Charles Carlson, W. J. Dean and Mrs. Claude McFarren.

CHALLENGE NEEDED

IN CALIFORNIA metropolitan areas there is a move under way to abolish the state senate and assembly in favor of a single legislative body.

Petitions initiating an election are being circulated by backers of this plan in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The issue of unicameral legislature is a perfectly proper one, of course, and the people should vote upon it if they desire. But the wisdom of abandoning our present system of two houses should not go unchallenged in the agricultural regions of California.

Surrender of the senate, to which each county sends a representative, in favor of one large assembly where representation would be solely on the basis of numerical population, would largely strip the farm areas of what influence they possess at present.

It would place, we believe, the destiny of great productive rural regions like Orange county at the mercy of city-dwelling masses. Not that we have anything against city folk. That's absurd. But merely that they do not understand our problems and hence are unable to come to the best conclusions on matters pertaining to our needs.

In advocating this change, the plea is made that it will result in greater efficiency in making laws. We have no quarrel with this statement—as it is quite plain that election costs, salaries, internal legislative friction, and other factors can be greatly reduced by plowing under a large part of our law-makers. But if efficiency is the only reason for the change, why not carry it to a logical conclusion and hire one dictator to draft all the laws?

The truth is, we believe, that this change is being agitated by a lot of theorists and a few big city politicians who scent an opportunity.

The Orange county farm bureau has wisely placed itself on record against the unicameral system in California.

It would be an advisable move, in our opinion, for other groups interested in the protection of agriculture and agricultural communities to investigate the matter.

KING EDWARD VIII

ALL INDICATIONS point to a highly successful reign for new King Edward VIII of England.

He comes to the throne a man of 42 years, with a life spent in training for the royal post. His boyhood was one of disciplined education. In youth he served in France during the World war. After that he travelled through Britain's wide domains, meeting the many peoples under the British flag. Lately he has served in the homeland, presiding over conventions, unveiling monuments, and making important public appearances.

He is a good speaker, plain in his tastes, charming and amiable, but with a firm will and a reluctance to accept ultra-conservative advice.

It is his desire to be known as a "typical Englishman." His motto is "Ich dien" (old German for "I serve").

The English throne is at present upon a firm foundation. It has come safely through the World war which brought downfall to the royal rulers of Russia, Germany, and Austria.

The English people seem satisfied with their traditional form of monarchy which dates back 1,200 years. They exercise constitutional rights nearly as broad as those in the United States under franchises and privileges which monarchs have ceded through centuries.

King Edward VIII is certain, observers think, to continue the sane, constitutional policies followed by his father and grandfather.

There is every reason to believe that "the world's most popular young man" may become "England's most popular king."

BEST ON EARTH

DR. FREDERIC P. WOELLNER hit the nail on the head about Americanism in his talk at the Santa Ana chamber of commerce dinner last night.

The distinguished Los Angeles educator vividly pointed out that the American system of government, as established and practiced under the Constitution, has permitted the people of the United States to develop into the happiest, richest and most powerful on earth. Without claiming perfection for our form of government, Dr. Woellner asserted that it is still by far the finest in aims, methods of operation, and results.

"I have talked to the leading men of 37 nations," he declared, "and most of them would be glad to exchange their position for ours."

Secret of America's supremacy lies in the fact that "We, the people" rule, says Dr. Woellner. Not merely the working class as in Russia, nor the autocrat as in Germany and Italy—but "We, the people."

Dr. Woellner is right. And it follows his statement, as the night the day, that if the United States is to continue a steady and happy existence the people must continue to rule.

PIONEERING DE LUXE

WHEN the freighter North Haven sailed out of the Golden Gate recently she carried materials for three complete hotels of 24 rooms and baths each that are to arise on mid-Pacific islands utterly deserted one short year ago.

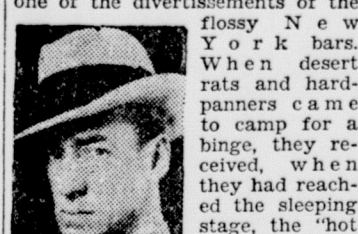

There is something almost fantastic in this conquest of the Pacific wastes by Pan-American Airways in the short space of a year. And nothing emphasizes it more sharply than the providing of urban hotel comforts on tiny islands heretofore sacred to tales of shipwreck and adventure.

Transpacific passengers will spend one night each on Oahu, Midway, Wake and Guam islands, flying by day and sleeping in comfort at night. And an air passage that stirred the world when Kingsford-Smith first undertook it will soon become almost a commonplace.

Whimsies

of O. O. McIntyre

A gag of the hell-roaring saloons in the mining towns is now one of the diversions of the flossy New York of the bars. When desert rats and hard-panners came to camp for a binge, they received, when they had reached the sleeping stage, the "hot foot."

Among the snoring boozers around the big belled ovens in the groves of Cripple Creek during the gold rush, it inspired several shootings. The "hot foot" is an old-fashioned match stuck in the shoe sole and set afire. When it burns to the end, there is a scream and epileptic jig.

Heat against leather created a sting like suddenly stepping on red hot iron. Such plushy estimations as the Stork club, El Morocco, etc., have a hot footling almost every dawn. The baby-faced Donahue boy in his cherubic innocence may apply it to Alfred Vanderbilt and so on.

Not long ago they tossed a dinner for Abe Lyman. He had just reached a misty-eyed interlude in his speech of thanks when his face froze in sudden horror. Then he let go an Indian shriek and leaped high. Jack Dempsey had crawled under the table and bestowed the "hot foot."

Sherman Billingsley seems to have sustained the after-midnight popularity of his Stork club for a strictly Broadway clientele, longer than any other of the current crop. A runner-up and sharing the same type of patronage is the dawn oasis, El Morocco.

Each is a sort of melting pot for Broadway and a pinch of Park avenue "slummers" and a bonanza for the chatter-writers. Texas Guinan caught the same crowd when she was hello-suckering the multitudes.

One of the mullioned memorial windows in The Little Church Around the Corner is to George and Elizabeth Wilson—sometime Doorkeepers in this House of the Lord. George, born in slavery, was one of the fortunate Negroes to find refuge in the edifice. A conscientious worker, he remained there until the end of his long life, bowing hundreds of communists to these pews. His wife was the janitress and kept the church pin-neat and shining.

Until his passing few of the thousands he made laugh knew Clarence Day was almost a helpless invalid. His hilarious drawings for his equally hilarious essays were executed with a pencil attached to a contrivance he moved slowly and painfully with the upper part of his arm, the lower part being impotent from arthritis. His "Life With Father" has been a best seller many months and one of his most comical skits was written three weeks before the end.

Ring Lardner, toward the last, tolled in the same agonizing fashion and created similar laughs. A nurse in a hospital with her hand gone in life's twilight for a brief change of scene tells of the electric glow in his room all night while he crouched on the bedside at his typewriter, sometimes tapping out no more than half a dozen words an hour. It so happened the last piece he wrote was a burlesque of this column, a side splitting travesty of exquisite ridicule but without malice. Such a kindly fellow was Lardner that he asked Harold Ross to ask if I minded. I was, of course, flattered.

The newspaper crowd after several weeks is still in a glow over the clean beat of the unassuming Times reporter, "Deed" Lyman, in the Lindbergh exile. His victory was the triumph of a reporter's trust. A memoranda and needed lesson in ethics. He had won Lindbergh's confidence and never lost the sense of its precious rarity. When the auspicious moment came for him to score the scoop of his generation, it was accomplished with all the serenity of the fine friendship that inspired it.

A mechanical age has made the scoop, or as Park Row terms it, beat, little noticed outside newspaper circles unless it has the importance of the Lindbergh story. I recall a murder confession we bottled up on a mid-west paper to release with an early a. m. extra. Afterward a rival reporter discovered the "murderer" was a nut who would confess to any murder mentioned. So we couldn't crow.

On the avenue late I wandered to a Saks window where a trimmer was adjusting a mink creation on a dummy. He flicked the fur, twisted the collar and tilted his head, robin-like, in appraisal. Finally his glance caught mine and he backed sheepishly into the store. And I felt sillier than usual myself somehow.

Women should never affect the type of clothes that makes every one stare when they enter a restaurant—Lady Mendi, named by Paris designers as the "world's best dressed woman."

This country has never known prosperity. All that is still ahead of us—Henry Ford.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. — Appointment of Professor William O. Douglas, Yale, as newest member of the securities and exchange commission, is expected to put backbones into an organization which recently has been coasting on its previous momentum.

Chairman Jim Landis, the savage liberal whose shadow once sent jitters down the spine of Wall street, now is suspected of eating caviar a little too frequently with the boys whom once he frightened. Other members of the commission have been leaning in this direction. Douglas has been leaning directly opposite.

Although he was once associated with one of Wall street's most prosperous law firms, Douglas has been SEC's most crusading investigator. His investigations of the bondholders' protective committees for the Frisco and Missouri Pacific Railways were sensational. Acret's special province is the legal work of the commission. To assist him in this he has a large staff of lawyers.

Acret has been at loggerheads with fellow officials on the commission from the very start. One of his first acts was to elect himself vice chairman when most of the other commissioners were out of town. He has repeatedly clashed with his colleagues on policy issues, particularly the question of price-fixing, which he favors while most of the others believe it should be handled cautiously.

The commissioner owes his job to Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, who took him into his law firm last year after patching up a peace with Upton Sinclair. Acret, a Sinclair lieutenant, was the EPIC candidate for the California supreme court.

In addition to these qualifications, Acret's background fitting him for a place on the coal commission includes war-time service in the aviation corps, a term as city attorney of Venice, Calif., and an inconspicuous part in the prosecution of the famous Centralia, Wash., I. W. W. cases a decade ago. Until he came to Washington he was unknown outside of California.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
Carle C. Zimmerman, Harvard sociology professor who teaches the Roosevelt boys, is being attacked as a Fascist. The attack comes from the Harvard Communist, a mimeographed monthly published by the Harvard unit of the Young Communist League. Zimmerman recently spent an evening at the White House to discuss the AAA with Chester Davis and the Roosevelt boys.

The Women's National Republican club boasts the following wives and relatives of Presidents among its members: Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Cateauze, granddaughter of President Grant, and Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Mrs. Borah, whose husband long urged American recognition of the Soviet government, is feted at least once a year at the Soviet embassy.

UP TO THE FARMERS
(From Coastline Dispatch)
About every conceivable scheme has been tried to create prosperity for the farmer. Some of the plans have been utter failures while others have doubtless given temporary aid. Probably there is no way by which prices and production can be controlled artificially for any considerable length of time. After all it is up to the farmers themselves, and their best bet seems to be cooperation.

Wallace's delegates represented approximately 3,000,000 farmers who own the own land and produce about 86 per cent of the country's farm products. Unrepresented were about 3,000,000 farm tenants who produce only 14 per cent of the country's farm goods; also about 3,000,000 agricultural workers. These two groups have benefited little from the AAA; many tenants

Miss Minnie Gardner gave a pleasant evening party yesterday in honor of her cousin, Edgar Wilford of Idaho. The time was spent with progressive whist, Miss Jane Humphreys and the honored guest winning the prizes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder and daughter, Mrs. J. T. Peck of Whittier, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stephenson. Mrs. Snyder is Mrs. Stephenson's grandmother.

DOUSY, France—Roger Sommer, aviator, took up six passengers in a large biplane and after circling the airdrome at a height of 100 feet, flew to Romilly and returned, thereby establishing a world's record for cross-country flight with passengers, and weight lifted.

D. W. McDonald will be kept in Los Angeles for another two months to boost for Orange county and guide homeseekers to the best and most productive section of California. The associated chambers of commerce of Orange county will pay the expenses, as the advertising fund of the county is exhausted.

Pasadena is all torn up over the cow question, the specific point involved being the right of citizens to keep cows within a certain limit prescribed by city ordinance. This ordinance stipulates that no cow can be kept within 50 feet of any residence, and in consequence, some 300 cows kept in Pasadena by people who prefer the milk of the town cow to that furnished by the milkman, will have to be provided for in some other manner than at present, or be sold.

One Man's Opinion
EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

One-Man Decisions Are the Rule, Not Exceptions
STOUT defenders of democratic government object to the supreme court wielding such great control over legislation. They point out that the court sometimes decides important cases by a 5-to-4 decision. They say that, in such cases, one man's vote settles the whole matter. They would require a unanimous vote of the court, or perhaps a two-thirds vote. Or maybe enlarge the court. They overlook the patent fact that one man would likely decide cases even with such changes.

New Jersey's governor has granted convicted Hauptmann a 30-day reprieve. Yellers for "direct action" shout for impeachment. Because the governor decides contrary to their action they want to oust him. Such blatant clamor smacks of mob action. It is the very negation of orderly processes of law. If the power of reprieve rests with the governor, whose judgment but his own should he use?

Nearly a year since Hauptmann's conviction. Again and again the death-chair has loomed before him. He has just felt its sizzling breath and is snatched away once more for further contemplation. Like a cat playing with a mouse until weary of the cruel sport, society plays with its condemned victims before snapping their necks or searing their flesh. And like old-time Romans we goad the covering wretch and call it a holiday.

WANTS A PLAN

The writer of this letter is not adept at writing things out on paper, but it seems to me that the time seems opportune to say a few things that come to us as we go along. This week the man came by to put our names on the voting list and we got along fine till he came to that question, your political party. Now we have voted all our adult life, been a Republican and proud of it, but is a Republican one who has no answer to the questions which we face today? Is a radio skit an answer to the questions of how am I to get bread for my family? Is a man to starve to death to preserve the constitution and is the constitution worth it when you make it a personal question? Now what the writer wants is a plan and we firmly believe most any plan is better than none at all, or one that has reduced to the dole 11,000,000 of folks who are just as good as I am. No we are not a Townsendite, not yet, but we will find it increasingly hard to get all "het" up because the radio has been denied the G. O. P. to put out its skit. Personally I don't care to hear how or why any plan won't work. I want to hear of one that will work, and as far as I can see we Republicans have answered the cry for bread with only a stone. I think it is high time for the Republicans to come through with a constructive thought.

AUDITORIUM NEEDED

To the Editor:
For several years Santa Ana has needed a civic auditorium with a seating capacity of around 5,000.

Monday night we had an ocular demonstration of that need when the largest auditorium in the city, namely, the First Methodist Episcopal church, was packed to the doors and hundreds of anxious people turned away, who wanted to hear Louis Browne's address under the auspices of the adult educational department of the Santa Ana city schools.

Several plans have been suggested for an auditorium, one of which would be to use the west half of Birch park for a site. The Sunday afternoon concerts by the Municipal band could be held there, also all meetings of a civic nature. Santa Ana then could bid for conventions of numerous kinds.

Eliminating the cost of a site (as the city owns Birch park) a building could be erected with a seating capacity of 5,000 people, for approximately $100,000. There are many public spirited citizens who could finance the above project and not feel it. In return, the auditorium could be named for the donor.

Remarkable Remarks

Parents, no matter how intelligent and devoted, can never substitute for the companionship of other children.—Dr. Elton Mayo, Harvard.

Neither Hoover nor Borah can win the nomination. . . I suggest, therefore, that the political lightweights of the minority party shake dice or shoot craps for it.—James A. Farley, postmaster-general.

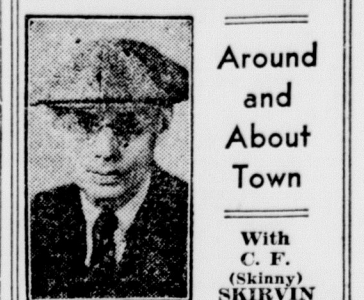

It becomes increasingly apparent that this band of super-patriots who have taken over the reins of government, are ready to take over both the legislative and judicial functions of the federal government.—Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi.

I've concluded the kids with bicycles have about the same chance of mowing a cotton. My observation leads me to conclude that Palm Springs suits are made out of nothing.

The remarkable performance of a streamlined steam locomotive was related by E. B. Sharpley, in an illuminating address before a service club, who gave the statistics about the "Milwaukee" train running between Chicago and St. Paul, the conservation of time, riding comfort and super service, punctuality, and its almost unbelievable recovery of passenger patronage. Sharpley says on long, heavy runs the steam-train is the answer, but that light streamlined trains are more adaptable for shorter distances. He put up such a convincing argument for the railroad that he introduced the "Milwaukee" train with such tempting appointments, that I got up to start for Chicago to take a ride, when one of my friends reminded me I didn't have enough money.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

Went over to A. G. Flagg's to peruse one memorandum pad, but the boss was in, so I asked Riley Huber to slip me one. When it comes to slipping that boy is an expert. He slipped me four. Now there are more ways than one to interpret this slip. Riley was either generous, or he did not want me back very soon. Your guess will be just as good as mine.

This streamline craze is going way past the railroad motif, the modiste silhouette, and has now invaded truck construction. Notice one of the oil companies had adopted the design, and I was going to say it is a swell job, but a streamline don't swell.

Ed. Cochems approaches. He places his hands in a horizontal position, starts to moving them from the inside out and then back again, lifts both shoulders, and never says a word. But I understand that mute message. It's a fine system. You can get by that way without violating the law.

Met a friend today who, for the past two weeks, has been expecting a remittance for oranges. He had the assurance that it would be forthcoming in a few days. Not having arrived he is now of the opinion that the house management is using a Chinese calendar.

Fem friend brings me the info that another fem friend does not like this column. You can't imagine the poignancy which this news was received. For a moment I thought about monoxide, cyanide, formaldehyde, and then I began to think about my own hide, and dismissed the incident as irrelevant so far as my peace of mind was concerned. Half a century of such vexations have made an armadillo out of this old "bird." So shoot. Don't mind the old grey hairs. I'm distinctly related to Barbara Fritchie.

When you get home, put your hand in your coat pocket and find a fork, it's either a case of kleptomania, or the fellow who sits next to you is unfriendly. A fork is not a potential danger, but if you want to start something put in a glove.

Miss Mary Jane Steel brought a social science class from the Willard Junior High into The Journal office to give them an opportunity to see how a newspaper is made. It's an interesting study from their point of view. I have an entirely different vision of the business after a prolonged affiliation. Their presence took me back to an unmentioned number of miles when I waited to get a few copies of a weekly off an old Washington hand press, and then stayed with the game through the evolution of mechanical perfection which the industry represents today. But notice reporters and editors' associations, editors' columnists, still occasionally stub their toes, professionally speaking, and my terminal members to this day get a few knocks in spite of all the care taken.

Clothing friend tells me that Palm Beach suits are made out of mohair and cotton. My observation leads me to conclude that Palm Springs suits are made out of nothing.

I've concluded the kids with bicycles have about the same chance of mowing a cotton. My observation leads me to conclude that Palm Springs suits are made out of nothing.

Carl Young comes over from Orange and talks oranges to me. He says this year's orange will be smaller than last, which means fewer boxes. What's worrying me is, does it mean more culls. I've not made such a howling success on culls, but confess to have done a lot of howling about it. In spite of what has happened, I'm still optimistic about the orange industry.
